STATE SCHOOL LEADERS LAUD LOCAL SYSTEM

Achievements During Past Five Years Bring Praise

Muscatine's school system and its achievements during the past five years as the result of careful administration and supervision, is highly commended in a statement received Saturday by E. A. Sparling, city superintendent, from Agnes Samuelson, state superintendent of public instruction, and Clara M. Wallace, state supervisor of normal training high schools.

Commenting upon the management of the local school system, the state officers say:

Improvements Varied
"Real improvements have been made in the schools at Muscatine during the past five years. This improvement has not been in one thing but is along all lines. Each department has had its share of attention."

"We wish to call special attention to the following achievements: throughout the schools there are signs of careful administration and supervision; the school has been extended up through junior college and down through kindergarten and some equipment added, yet without increased cost. This shows careful management."

Achievements Notable
"Through careful grade supervision, improvements in instruction in both the grades and high school have been made. An intelligent testing program has been prompted in that a remedial program follows the testing done."

"Notable achievements have been made in spelling, penmanship, declamation, farm shops, health, academic, athletics, physical plants and test books. There is yet much to be done in your schools, but we have only the highest praise to offer concerning the achievements which we have noted in your schools making in the past five years."

FIRE DESTROYS BARN; 2 AUTOS

Extent of Loss Late Saturday Night Undetermined

Two automobiles, one a Ford truck and the other a Star touring car, were destroyed in a fire of unknown origin which raged a barn belonging to William McKamey at 611 East Third street, at 12:11 a. m. today.

The entire fire department was called out, the blaze had reached the roof of the barn. The fire burned for about an hour and a half before it was extinguished. The loss, which was expected to be large had not been determined at an early hour this morning.

Another fire was made by companies No. 1 and 3 at 5:35 p. m. Saturday afternoon to the home of Edward Lord, 1024 Kansas street, where a gasoline stove exploded. The interior of the home was damaged by smoke, but the loss was regarded as small.

Odd Fellows Name H. F. Larsen Their Chief Patriarch

H. F. Larsen was chosen chief patriarch of Prairie Encampment No. 4, I. O. O. F. hall. He succeeds Ralph Chandler as head of the organization.

Other officers elected are Harry Wall, high priest; John Rapp, senior warden, and V. L. Smith, junior warden. All of the officers hold terms of six months.

Installation ceremonies are to be conducted early in July.

DISTRICT COURT

Transcript of the suit in which Marie Garrard was granted a divorce from Harold Garrard in Marshall county on June 1, has been received here. The decree, granted by Judge B. O. Tanker, awarded the plaintiff custody of three children and $300 alimony.

James T. Pound has filed answer in the suit brought against him by the Cutter-Crossette company for $299.28, claimed due on a merchandise account. The indebtedness is denied. E. L. Bihlmeyer is attorney for Pound.

Nettie E. Nichols, widow of the late Harry B. Nichols of Wapinitia, township, filed her acceptance of the terms of the will in which she is named as a beneficiary. Beatrice S. Nichols is executrix of the estate and Robert Brooke is the attorney.

Charges that he was cruel and that he was convicted of a felony were denied in an answer filed Saturday by Paul Lee, defendant in a divorce suit filed by Iva Lee. He asks that the case be dismissed. Drake and Wilson are attorneys for Mrs. Lee, and Fishburn & Fishburn represent the defendant.

James C. Ward, defendant in the suit by the W. D. Hanna company for $1,324.38, filed a special appearance on Saturday, setting forth that he had not been served with an original notice in the suit and that there had been no sheriff's return of notice. Gus Albee is attorney for the defendant, and Cray and Cray appear for the plaintiff.

Jannet E. Smith and others, defendants in a suit filed by James T. McDowell in which he asks that the will of his step-mother, Mrs. Minnie McDowell be set aside, filed a motion to strike on Saturday.

Stars of Graduating Class

Pictured above are the star students of the class of 1931 Muscatine high school seniors who received diplomas Friday evening. Marion Chamberlin, 15, and the youngest member of the graduating class, was valedictorian. Her grades in high school averaged 95 per cent. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chamberlin, 615 Chestnut street. John Haefner, Jr., 17, was salutatorian, with a grade average of 94.9 per cent. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. John Haefner, 513 Sycamore street. Incidentally, John and Marion were elected representative boy and girl of the high school by the three upper classes.

the cities the clear fresh air is cut off by factory smokestacks, the beautiful vistas of streets in some cities is replaced by row upon row of similar houses, but the world, which may have forgotten, is still the same. The challenge of today is to consider what aim in life is most worthwhile and the college graduates of today are faced with the necessity of becoming pathfinders of good and worthy life amidst all the comforts, luxuries and deformities of our complete civilization."

Charles Chapman Of Cranston Called By Death Saturday

Charles W. Chapman, a farmer of the Cranston district, died Saturday at 2 p. m. at the University of Iowa hospital at Iowa City from a complication of diseases. He had been ailing for several years.

Mr. Chapman was born 61 years ago in Iowa county, but had spent practically all of his life in Muscatine county, where he had farmed for many years. He had resided on a farm near Cranston for the past five years, prior to which he had farmed near West Liberty. He was a member of the United Brethren church at Cranston.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Chapman; six children, Leonard, Ralph, Everett, Albert and Bertha, at home; and Mrs. Charles Gersy, Nicholas, a brother, E. L. Chapman, Muscatine; and a sister, Mrs. Ella Chesbro, Eldorado, N. D.

fighting that—the same as candy fellows fought the cigarette fellows for saying—reach for a smoke instead of a sweet—the fear that someone will lose a dollar is in the heart of all.

DAVENPORTERS—what do you pay weekly for the Davenport Democrat? It is published in your city—they sell it in Muscatine for TEN CENTS A WEEK—do you pay more in Davenport—if you do—it's funny isn't it that more has been charged in the past, when it can be trucked THIRTY MILES and sold for less. I remember the time when you folks in Davenport, paid around TEN CENTS FOR ELECTRICITY WHILE THE SAME COMPANY MADE IT RIGHT IN YOUR BACK YARD AND TRANSMITTED IT THIRTY MILES TO MUSCATINE where they sold it for SEVEN CENTS—you need a paper in Davenport that will tell you the truth for the benefit of the public.

DON'T MISS THIS—It is reported around on the streets that a fellow in St. Paul who owns a shoe store in Muscatine, has told his local manager—a woman here—NOT TO PLACE ANY ADS IN THE FREE PRESS—because his brother or relative is a DOCTOR IN ST. PAUL—laughable isn't it—he comes to Muscatine, rents a store—begs for trade from Muscatine people, and is not loyal enough to the community that feeds him to respect a newspaper owned by nearly 1100 local people—all because his brother is a doctor or something like that—IT WON'T BE LONG UNTIL FREE PRESS READERS AND STOCKHOLDERS WILL BEGIN TO REALIZE THIS DISLOYAL ACTION ON THE PART OF A STORE like that and will soon catch on to the folly of a name meaning "TRADE AT HOME" shoe store. You can fool some of the people SOME OF THE TIME, but by golly, you can't fool them ALL THE TIME.

SHOE STORES—Speaking of them, I believe there are only TWO in the city who do not advertise in these columns—I feel you readers and stockholders should know that—just watch our columns and you will notice who they are—both are CHAIN SHOE STORES, and operate here for your money but what respect have they for YOUR COMMUNITY—what care they if Muscatine grows or not?—just so you drop in once and a while and buy a pair of shoes—I am writing some editorials that will give later on this subject and I will give their names—it is things like that that caused BILL HENDERSON to make war on two stores because they were NOT FAIR and they have lost millions through him. THEY DESERVED IT, and I glorify Bill for his fight against both of those store groups who do not become part of your city life. I have written to one of them and advised them that the Free Press DOES NOT CARE FOR ANY OF ITS ADVERTISING—we will only let those stores advertise in our columns that meet fair merchandising and loyal conditions. MORE LATER.

by the appeal of the said appellant, Norman Baker.

"It is ordered by the court that said petition be, and is hereby granted that the order of June 5th, 1931 complained of, be and is hereby stayed, pending the determination of this appeal or until the further order of the court; but with leave to the commission, if it shall be so advised, to move to dismiss this stay order, on notice of three days to appellant."

Expect resistance
That the radio commission will exercise the right granted it to move to dismiss the stay order is expected by Baker's attorneys. Word received here indicates that the prompt application for the stay order was made to the legal staff of the commission. It was apparently anticipated that the station would have to cease broadcasting Friday night because of the great distance from Washington to Muscatine and the peremptory nature of the order. Word of the adverse decision was received here at about 3:30 and the stay order was served on the commission at 3:35 (C. S. T.).

Attorney Randall expects to leave tonight for Washington.

Itemized Reports On Rural Schools Will Be Compiled

Preparatory to the compiling of school reports, E. D. Bradley, county superintendent of schools, Saturday sent out blanks to the secretaries and treasurers of all of the 38 school organizations in Muscatine county. The blanks are for general school information, including the financial transactions for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Reports of the secretaries which will cover itemized statements of all orders receipts and disbursements, will be made public. The report will be published once in the three districts where papers are published, Muscatine, Wapinitia and West Liberty. In the other districts three copies of the report will be posted and another furnished to the superintendent.

The second report of the secretary will include considerable data, the number living in the district, the number of school age, property in the district, value of school buildings, the number of teachers, types of buildings, study courses and other data. The report of the treasurer will be similar to one of the secretaries reports.

All of the statistical reports are to be combined in the annual report which the superintendent will compile for the state superintendent of schools. The reports are due on July 1, at which time the annual meetings of the school corporations are held.

Earl Pace, Aged 5, Of Atalissa Dies Here on Saturday

Earl Pace, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Pace of Atalissa, died at 11 p. m., Saturday at the home of his grandfather, E. M. Pace, in Sweetland township, from an attack of spinal meningitis.

The infant was stricken April 6 and was taken to the Bellevue hospital where he apparently was recovering and was later taken to the home of his grandfather.

Earl Pace was born July 6, 1925. Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Weldon and Kenneth, and a sister, Verle. Funeral arrangements are as yet incomplete.

Relatives here have received word of the death of C. W. Houtz, former Muscatine resident who passed away Thursday at his home in York, Neb. Mr. Houtz was born in Sand Prairie, Iowa at Oceola, Neb.

We get up in the air occasionally, ourselves—However, as far as the North Pole is concerned, we're willing to leave it to the Byrds and the Eskimos. But, speaking of Eskimos, we can't help feeling sorry for them. With nights six months long we can think of no one who could better appreciate the downright comfort of good bedroom furniture. Well, there aren't any Eskimos in our town, which is only another way of reminding you how lucky you are.

COURT UPHOLDS DRAINAGE WORK

Judge Barker Rules County Board Had Jurisdiction

That the Muscatine county board of supervisors acted with full jurisdiction in commencing proceedings for repairing of the ditch in drainage district No. 1, which includes parts of Wapinitia and Goshen townships, was the ruling in an opinion filed by Judge A. P. Barker on Saturday with the clerk of the district court.

There has been no decree entered as yet but the opinion upholds the program adopted several months ago for widening, deepening, cleaning out and extending the drainage ditch.

Injunction Filed
Property owners of the district, headed by A. L. McIntire, recently filed suit for an injunction to restrain the board of supervisors from carrying out the program. The case came before Judge Barker as the March term neared the close, and all evidence was entered by stipulation. The court instructed the attorneys at that time to file written briefs and took the issue under advisement.

The petition of the property owners was based on section 7559 as amended by the last general assembly that it was necessary to have a petition signed by owners of at least 25 per cent of the real estate owners in the district requesting the improvement. In his opinion the court held that this was not true, and that the board of supervisors had full power to take any necessary action to improve the district.

Election Is Called
When the board authorized the improvement program a series of actions developed. Objections to the value of the work, which was taken over for the improvement project, were entered by three of the large owners of the district. The court, at the opening of the present term, with permission of the defendants, gave the property owners a limited time to file their objections and set forth their claims.

Later, the property owners petitioned the supervisors to call an election to determine if the affairs of the district will in the future be managed by a board of three directors from the district. An election to decide the matter was set for late in July.

ACTION IS WON BY KLEINDOLPH

Charles Kleindolph won his fight in resisting the action of the city of Muscatine to require him to tear down the abandoned Jefferson school building on East Seventh street, when Judge A. P. Barker filed his opinion in district court Saturday. The suit of Kleindolph against the city was heard during the March term of court.

In its opinion the court found that the building has not proven a fire hazard and there is no authority for razing the structure because it is used for doubtful purposes or because it is unsightly to neighboring people.

Action of the city council in condemning the property was based on the findings of the fire committee and the city engineer that the three-story brick building was a fire menace and a nuisance.

Finley to Appeal
Fine for Assault, Court Is Informed
Arthur Finley, who was found guilty on a charge of assault and battery in Justice H. D. Horst's court on Friday afternoon, announced after being fined $10 and costs that he would take an appeal to the district court.

Finley was charged with assaulting Clay Kneese on East Second street, Friday, May 29.

Watch Out for 'Phone Poles, Norml

Heigh! Ho! for a buggy ride, off for a big newspaper "scoop". Norman Baker, president of the Progressive Publishing company, and Mary M. Williams, society editor of the Midwest Free Press, have a back to the old days in a Sears gasoline buggy of 1909 vintage. "No danger of clipping off telephone poles in this contraption," commented Mr. Baker, referring to the havoc his front-drive Ford wreaked upon the A. T. & T.'s property in Pennsylvania. Despite his ability as a mechanic, Mr. Baker found the steering rod and sliding "gear shift" of the Sears harder to manipulate than his shiny new Franklin convertible coupe. The Sears, a two-cylinder, air-cooled, 10 horsepower machine, is the property of Edward A. Leu garage 220 Iowa avenue.

John Kendig Dies; Services Will Be Conducted Monday

Funeral services for John W. Kendig, 69, who died Friday afternoon at the Grand hotel as a result of a stroke, will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 from the Wittich Funeral Home. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery with the Masonic lodge assisting in the services. The body will remain at the Wittich home until time of the services.

Mr. Kendig was born July 8, 1861, in Muscatine. He had never married. He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Little Rock, Arkansas, where he was a past master. He had been living in Muscatine for the past four years. He had been superintendent of a sawmill in the South for many years.

Surviving are five brothers and sisters: Mrs. Mary Shick, Los Angeles, Calif.; J. H. Kendig, Samuel Kendig, Joe Kendig, Mrs. Fred Hoopes, all of Muscatine, and Will Kendig of Havre, Mont.

Table Shows Sales Here Compare Well With Other Cities

Comparison of the retail trade in other cities with Muscatine, has been made by Frank M. Myers, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The figures show that Muscatine's sales for 1930 of $11,261,265 compare favorably with surrounding cities and towns. At that time, the report shows, there were 398 retail stores in Muscatine and the annual payroll was $1,174,823. The comparisons arranged by Mr. Myers are as follows:

WENAK'S BAND TO BE FEATURE OF POTOSI DAY

Free Taxi Service to Big Fete at Airport Tuesday Night

Have you had your Potosi yet? If not, why not? "Doc" Wenak and his German jazz band, the world endurance champions and the only band of its kind in the United States, will remind you of it in none too vociferous manner on Potosi day (Tuesday) in a series of concerts that will leave very few of Muscatine's refreshment parlors unvisited.

Free Taxi Service
"Doc" the boy who made Muscatine famous in a musical way, said his boys will play for the trippers of the light fantastic in a big celebration Tuesday evening at 10:30 at the Airport, after they have made the rounds of the city's "oasis" where Potosi is served. No excuse for not attending, for Yellow Cab service will be furnished free from 11 p. m. until 1 a. m.
Potosi day will be heralded by "Doc" and his boys in a huge Potosi truck, owned by Bob Heberer, distributor and sponsor of Potosi day.
The members of "Doc's" band on the entertainment program follow: Simon Rosenberg, trumpet, mellophone and comedy; Leonard Esterdahl, banjo, guitar, French horn and songs; Ira Moseley, trombone, euphonium and songs; Vincent Schreurs, saxophone, clarinet, baritone, all reeds and comedy; W. Scotty Latham, piano, piano accordion, ballads and novelties; and Wenak, percussion.

Itinerary Is Listed
Wenak's outfit will meet a caravan of Ford motor cars at 9 a. m. Tuesday at the end of Mulberry avenue, from where they will parade to the Ford Motor show opposite the Hotel Muscatine. After a concert there they will go to the Midwest Free Press at 3 p. m., and after that the following places will be visited:

OPINION GIVEN IN ASSESSING OF BANK STOCK

Three Illustrations of Method to Be Used
Cited

DES MOINES.—(INS)—An opinion clarifying methods of assessing bank stock under the state laws as amended by the 42nd and 44th general assemblies, Saturday had been given the state board of assessment and review by Attorney General John Fitch.

The assessor, the opinion holds, for the purpose of deducting real estate, shall include in the capital structure the amount represented by capital stock together with surplus and undivided profits.

Three illustrations were quoted in the opinion, taking first as an example a bank with capital stock in the amount of $50,000, surplus of $15,000, and undivided profits of $10,000; the amount of the capital of said bank actually invested in real estate being $40,000. In this case it will be seen that the amount represented by capital stock exceeds the amount of the capital actually invested in real estate by $10,000.

There would, therefore, be no balance to be taxed as monies and credits. The plan is a competitive one and is conducted on a business basis. No dividends or bonus will be distributed among our active participants.

To become a candidate in this award distribution is an easy matter. It is just as easy if you will apply yourself during your spare moments.

There will be plenty of gifts to go around among the contributors, either automobiles, airplanes with course of instruction, or some coin of the good old realm for every active worker. The plan is a competitive one and is conducted on a business basis. No dividends or bonus will be distributed among our active participants.

Another opinion, given the state highway commission holds that only bridges and culverts built on primary roads with county funds are subject to the various provisions set up by the 42nd general assembly.

The bridges or culverts must have been built since April 19, 1919, on roads which the time on building said bridges or culverts was primary roads.

Cairo

CAIRO, Ia.—(Special)—Mrs. Jack Lins attended the high school graduating exercises in Burlington, Wednesday evening. Her brother, Charles Sellers, being a member of the class, it is of much interest to Mrs. Otto Miller, who has been in the local people, as he took the first eight years work in Cairo, which is the same school his parents attended. He moved to Burlington when his parents moved there about three years ago.

A great deal of practicing is being done preparatory to the children's day programs, which are to be given in the various churches. Ladies Circle of the Cairo Evangelical church Wednesday afternoon in her home east of Cairo. There were twenty present.

Mrs. H. W. Hendricks, who is the wife of her pastor, led the devotional exercises. Some of the ladies quilted and the rest pieced quilt blocks.

Refreshments were served. Russel Sleigh of Wapello, is doing official surveying on the Wapello Winfield road. Mr. Sleigh is well and favorably known in this vicinity.

Some up-to-date professional pick pockets were in this locality Wednesday. They relieved some of our elderly, and highly respected citizens of most of their money in broad day light.

County Agent Robert M. Davis was in the neighborhood Wednesday. Lee Ross was a business caller in Wapello Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCan, of this vicinity and Mr. McCan's sister, her husband and her son, who are Mr. and Mrs. Will Blackley and son, Walter of Custer, Okla., went to Muscatine, Wednesday and spent the day visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip LaCornu.

On Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. Blackley and son, Walter, left for their home in Oklahoma.

More Rain Today
Is Prediction by Weather Observer

The weather today will not be of the variety desired for picnics and other outings, as the weather man announces mostly unsettled with probable showers at intervals. Temperatures which were cooler following the 1.52 inch rainfall during the period ending at 7 a. m. Saturday, were expected to rise during the day.

Saturday morning's reading at 7 a. m. by William Matis, local observer, showed 52 degrees, 14° lower than on Friday. The wind was in the north.

The rain over the state was general, according to reports from the state weather bureau. From 2 to 3 inches fell over most of Iowa. The precipitation has helped corn, small grain, hay and pastures to a noticeable extent.

Rich Awards Await Workers In Free Press Distribution

The liberality of our big $10,000 cash and airplane distribution and the fact that everyone will be paid ten per cent of every dollar's worth of business they secure as they turn their subscriptions in should create considerable interest among our people and there should be a lot of folks enter this unusual campaign.

The character and class of these motor cars, airplane, and cash awards should attract candidates from every section of this territory of which Muscatine is the hub. It makes no difference where a candidate lives, so far as his chances are concerned, even the highest of the awards has been so arranged that each candidate will have an equal opportunity.

Most everyone should be mighty proud to own either of the automobiles or the airplane, which The Free Press is giving folks the opportunity to obtain in return for a little of their spare time and anybody can certainly use any of the many sums of cash which will be distributed among our active participants.

The campaign, which is just starting, is open to all reputable men, women and young folks in Muscatine and surrounding territory. All that is necessary to make entry is to clip the nomination coupon which appears in this issue and see that it reaches The Midwest Free Press Campaign Department. You may deliver it in person or send it by mail.

During the first few weeks of the campaign more vote credits are allowed on subscriptions than later on; this is done in fairness to those ambitious ones who hustle out first and do the work. Votes will be allowed on all subscriptions, whether they be new or renewals. Now, then, with such a few candidates entered, so far, who are actively participating, this is the opportune time to cash in on the easy subscriptions; they are easy to get now. A real worker, one with pep and ambition could enter today and within the next two or three weeks stack up enough vote credits to be assured of taking away the very biggest award we have to offer, the $1745 Chrysler "6" Sedan, the Curtis Wright motor plane with a course of instruction at our local airport, or $1800 in cold cash—think of it! Think what it would mean to you. Any of those who are entering now can accomplish the same thing if they apply themselves. For any information telephone or write The Midwest Free Press—the office is open until 8 o'clock evening.

All those who have entered the campaign should try to report with at least one club of subscriptions by next Saturday night.

The plan is a competitive one and is conducted on a business basis. No dividends or bonus will be distributed among our active participants.

RATE INCREASE BEING SOUGHT BY RAIL HEADS

Is First Step Taken to Restore Their Earning Power

NEW YORK.—(INS)—A formal demand for an increase in freight rates all over the country of 15 per cent was decided upon at a meeting of eastern and western railroad executives, according to the understanding in financial circles today.

The gathering of executives which was held yesterday at the hotel Biltmore is the first definite step to be taken in efforts to restore the earning power of the nation's railroad systems.

The decision to make a single application to the interstate commerce commission was reached after extended discussion, and takes the place of previous plans for separate action by each group of roads.

The 15 per cent increase, with certain exceptions to be named in the application, is expected to give an increase in gross revenues of approximately $400,000,000 or 10 per cent of total revenues. No rise in passenger revenues is anticipated.

The decision to join in a single application was encouraged by informal endorsement of the rate increase plan by large shippers and railroad labor unions in eastern and western territory.

A meeting of executives from all over the country has been called for Thursday of next week to complete the agreement for a nationwide application.

Demo and G. O. P. Leaders Conduct Savage Warfare

WASHINGTON.—(INS)—The "high commands" of the republican and democratic national committees are conducting a savage warfare against each other.

The republicans opened the latest phase of their battling when Senator Hatfield (R) of West Virginia, charged John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, was "steadily increasing the size of his mortgage" on the democratic party.

The democratic retort, issued through Joseph Shouse, charged Will H. Hays, former republican national chairman, had "hijacked Harry F. Sinclair out of two or three hundred thousands of the continental trading lot that was denounced by the supreme court as the proceeds of a corporation created for some illegitimate purpose" and to circumvent the law and defeat public policy.

Airplane Carrying Cargo of Liquor Seized by Agents

LOS ANGELES.—(INS)—United States customs men today took into custody Erie F. Halliburton, Okla., who has just returned from Cornell college. It also was Miss Chamberlin's birthday.

The evening was spent in the enjoyment of musical numbers and playing pit. Miss Virginia Brown held high score and Miss Margaret Reed won the consolation prize. A three-course luncheon was served late in the evening.

The airplane was subsequently seized. Halliburton and his pilot obtained their release on $2,500 bonds each and were ordered to appear Tuesday before United States commissioner head. They were charged with violating the tariff act. The party arrived at noon from El Paso, Tex.

Chicago (INS)—Frank McElane, dubbed by police and enemies as "Chicago's cruellest gangster," reposed in a police cell Saturday night on a charge of having bitten his sister, Mrs. Margaret Marvis.

The warrant, charging mayhem, was obtained by Mrs. Marvis a few hours after McElane was arrested in front of her home today and charged with intoxication. McElane, it was alleged, forced his way into the home of his sister when denied admittance, knocked the woman down and bit her cheek.

Shortly afterward he opened fire with a brace of shotguns in an attempt to quell imaginary enemies.

A New Jersey inventor's motor boat is equipped with an undercarriage that enables it to travel over roads on small wheels at a speed of 40 miles an hour.

About three per cent of the German railroad system has been electrified. Bavaria leading with nearly 434 miles of lines supplied with hydroelectric power.

Miss Eichenauer Entertains Friends

The Mormons—6. Utah Becomes American Territory.

—By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

AT THE CLOSE OF THE MEXICAN WAR IN 1848 UTAH BECAME PART OF THE UNITED STATES, BUT BRIGHAM YOUNG AND THE MORMON CHURCH LAWS REMAINED THE SUPREME POWER IN THE TERRITORY.

AFTER THE DISCOVERY OF GOLD IN CALIFORNIA THE MORMONS WERE ANGERED BY THE STREAM OF FORTUNE HUNTERS THAT POURED THROUGH UTAH ON THE WAY TO THE GOLD FIELDS. THE MORMONS ATTACKED THE WAGON TRAINS AND AT MOUNTAIN MEADOWS WIPE OUT A LARGE PARTY OF EMIGRANTS.

IN 1857 A FEDERAL ARMY UNDER GEN. ALBERT SIDNEY JOHNSTON WAS SENT TO UTAH TO MAKE THE MORMONS KEEP THE PEACE AND CONFORM TO THE LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES. ALL THIS EXPEDITION ACCOMPLISHED WAS TO BRING ABOUT AN UNSATISFACTORY TRUCE (1858).

IN THE 'EIGHTIES CONGRESS PASSED A BILL GIVING POLYGAMY IN THE TERRITORY THE PROPERTY OF THE MORMONS. IMPRISONED MORE THAN A THOUSAND FOR VIOLATING THE LAW. THE CHURCH ABOLISHED POLYGAMY IN 1890. PRESIDENT RESTORED FERTY AND PADDOED

SLICK JESNICK
SET TO BATTLE
ANDERSON HEREBout to Be Main Go
On Elks Big Card
Monday Night

Fresh from a decision victory over Lloyd Dyart of Des Moines at Waterloo last Saturday night, Slick Jesnick of Newton is all set for his ten-round go with Lawrence Anderson of Rock Island at the Elks home Monday night. The bout will be the feature event of a seven bout card with 41 rounds of boxing entertainment scheduled.

In April Jesnick outpointed Anderson by a narrow margin at Cedar Rapids and is coming to Muscatine with the vowed intention of beating the Rock Island welter again. Since then however, Anderson has easily defeated Frank Boyle of Chicago and Johnny Fulton of Cedar Rapids and is expected to give Jesnick plenty of trouble in Monday night's appearance here.

Gary Reed of Grandview and Bud Green of Lone Tree, 137 pounds, will be the principals in the semi-wind-up an eight rounder, while two six round bouts will bring together Fred Jesnick of Newton and Pete Bess of Moline at 165 pounds and Russ Yedlick of Lone Tree and Babe Wright of Fruitland, 140 pounds.

Two four rounds and an exhibition three round bout complete the bill which follows:

Windup—Slick Jesnick of Newton vs. Lawrence Anderson of Rock Island, 10 rounds at 147 pounds.

Semi-wind-up—Gary Reed of Grandview vs. Bud Green of Lone Tree, 8 rounds at 137 pounds.

Six rounds—Fred Jesnick of Newton vs. Pete Bess of Moline, 165 lbs.

Six rounds—Russ Yedlick of Lone Tree vs. Babe Wright of Fruitland, 140 lbs.

Four rounds—Everett Holliday vs. Lefty Phillips, both of Muscatine, 105 pounds.

Four rounds—Bumps Koepping vs. Tiger Phillips, both of Muscatine, 73 pounds.

Three rounds—Mike Downey vs. Bud Meyers, both of Muscatine, 50 pounds.

ST. LOUIS (INS)—The Cardinals beat the Robins Saturday, 8 to 6, in the first game of a series of four to be played here. The Cards out-hit the visitors, getting fifteen hits from two Robins pitchers while Derringer, who went out in the eighth for a pinch hitter, allowed Brooklyn thirteen hits.

The Cards started 2 in the first inning to score half of their runs on singles by Watkins, Frisch and Collins, followed by Chic Hafe's circuit clout.

Four consecutive singles off Fred Heimach provided the winning margin. Box score:

Recreation Outlay Not Cut
Even in '30, Says Year Book

NEW YORK (INS)—Expenditures for public recreation in America made a gain of $5,000,000 in 1930 over expenditures in 1929, according to the Year Book of the National Recreation association issued recently.

According to figures for the total amount spent during 1929 and 1930 depression did not effect America's playgrounds. In the 980 communities of the United States and Canada $38,518,194 was spent for recreation as compared with about $33,518,194 spent in 1929.

"To provide work for the unemployed, many cities have pushed park and playground development. An increased need for maintaining health and morale through wholesome recreation at a time when public budgets for amusement are curtailed has been seen also by city recreation departments."

Throngs of both adults and children used city facilities, attendance figures indicate. At outdoor playgrounds alone, the total yearly or seasonal attendance reported by 573 cities was 206,818,987.

About three and three-quarters million people were served daily at these playgrounds. It is estimated that indoor recreation centers and recreation buildings, the number of participants reached 34,114,757 in the cities submitting attendance data.

Nearly thirty-nine and a half million visits were paid to municipal bathing beaches in eighty-one cities during the year, and 7,520,551 rounds of golf were played on 163 municipal courses. Ten organized league sports under city auspices enlisted 1,603,437 players, three times the number reported for 1925. Playground baseball, soccer, tennis, and bowling show the most marked growth in popularity.

Last year's craze for miniature golf prompted a new question in the Year Book on municipal facilities for the abridged game. One hundred and eighty-four "Tom Thumb" courses were reported by ninety-seven cities. Participants for the season on only twenty-five of these courses totalled 124,433, and a generous profit was shown for the courses which reported operating costs.

From forty-one cities which had directed playgrounds in 1906, the year the National Recreation association was organized, the public recreation movement has spread to 465 cities in 1929, and from 748 cities in 1925 to the present 980. A marked increase in municipal and county, rather than private, support of recreation in noted during the last ten years.

More than eighty-five per cent of the 1930 expenditures, the source of which was reported, was derived from taxation. Of the balance less and charges, and slightly more than eleven per cent came from fees for recreation. County recreation systems are a recent development. No use of county funds for recreation was reported for 1920; for 1925, four counties reported recreation systems, and for 1930, forty-nine counties.

Play leadership, at first considered women's work, shows a steady growth in the percentage of men leaders. For 1920, 4,149 men recreation leaders and 6,069 women leaders were reported employed. For 1930, 12,151 men and 12,798 women.

Of 172 college graduates trained for recreation positions by the National Recreation School since its opening in 1926, 110 are men and 62 are women.

Among the 13,354 directed recreation areas which cities reported are 7,777 outdoor playgrounds, 2,066 indoor recreation centers, 4,322 baseball diamonds, 312 golf courses and 1,042 swimming pools. Testifying to the popularity of community winter sports are 1,806 ice skating areas, fifty-nine ski jumps and 221 toboggan slides. Seven hundred and ninety-one new play areas were opened in 1930 for the first time, and fifty-eight gifts of land for recreation use were reported by fifty-two cities.

MOKATAM BEATS
QUESTIONNAIRE

BELMONT PARK, N. Y.—The colors of the mighty Questionnaire trailed in the dust in the 45th suburban handicap here Saturday afternoon when Mokاتم chased the Rancocas stable's Mokاتم over the finish line after a gruelling mile and one-quarter. The unnamed son of Bud Lerner had a margin of a neck as they flashed by the judges. He closed at 6 to 1 in the betting.

The race was marred when the Audley Farm's Gallant refused to leave his stall at the break and galloped along behind his field all the way. Even so, he closed much ground and had he not been left at the post probably would have been the stoutest kind of contender.

A Jockey Arthur Robertson had Mokاتم right with the leaders from the break and at the three-quarter pole he moved by the pace-making Poly-Dorus, took the rail and sat down to wait for the inevitable challenge of the Butler Big Train. It came.

At the turn for home Workman and Questionnaire were only a length and a half away and the crowd of 30,000 that had backed him into odds-on favoritism at 3 to 5, joined the chorus of "Here he comes!" but the dash and fire he displayed in previous races was not his under his crushing impost of 128 pounds and the best he could do was close slowly on the pace-maker under Workman's stinging gad.

In spite of all Workman could make it. Jockey Robertson was nursing the tiring Mokاتم along under a snug hand and he managed to cling on just long enough.

Of Vetter Too Much
For Clowns

JAMESTOWN, N. D.—(Special)—Artie Vetter, of Muscatine, brother of Bobby Vetter, who faced him four times during the contest, was too much for Jack Hruska's American-Canadian touring clowns from Muscatine WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

His pitching and hitting gave the locals a sensational ten inning 3 to 2 victory over his home town club. One of the features of the game was the brother vs. brother play. Art Vetter is Jamestown's pitcher and his brother, Bobbie, is the centerfielder for the Muskies. The brothers faced each other four times. The first time up the youngster got a clean hit driving it deep into center, the next time he got on through error, then was out at third and in the ninth Jahneke robbed him of another hit.

Art pitched and played wonderful ball and his support was something to be proud of. He got a home run clear across the fence in the third which brought Padavan home, thus scoring two runs. Paday got a hit and then stole second, having stolen a base in the first inning, he also got three hits out of four times at bat. Marty O'Neill stole three bases, two in the first inning and again in the seventh. Ensminger, who played at first in this initial appearance, gave good account of himself in the six innings he was in and much will be expected of this boy.

MISS MAUREEN
ORCUTT THIRD

PORTSMOUTH, Ireland (INS)—Although seven strokes behind the leader, Miss Maureen Orcutt, sole remaining American contestant in the British Ladies' golf championship, held third place Saturday at the end of the first round of qualifying play.

Maureen, playing through a drenching thunderstorm, carded an 82 for her first 18 holes of play. Miss Enid Wilson, English ladies' champion, had a 75. Miss Vanda Margan of England with an 80 was second on Saturday's list.

Mrs. Mark Steel, of San Gabriel, Cal., a last minute American entry, dropped out of further play at the end of the first round. She started in the drenching rain which was responsible for adding many strokes to Miss Orcutt's card, and although she completed the round, she did not turn in her card.

Maureen had a fine outgoing card, reaching the turn in 37—one stroke over par, but found conditions on the in nine almost unplayable. Two 7's and one six were sore spots on her card. She took 45 for the in nine.

The other scores were Molly Gourlay 83; Miss D. Pimm, 86; Miss MacEron, 87; Miss Chambers, 90. The second qualifying round will be played on Monday, and championship play will start Tuesday.

The Illinois athletic commission has decided not to recognize any champion in heavyweight wrestling.

VIENNA (INS)—George Loti and John Van Ryn, American tennis aces, defeated the Austrian team of Artens and Haberl in the doubles matches of the Austro-American tennis tournament here Saturday. The score was 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

The Americans, after sweeping through two stubbornly contested sets, were stopped momentarily in the third frame when the Austrians staged a determined rally and dominated the court through nine games. The rally, however, was short lived. The Americans showed fatigue at the end of the third set and the Americans took the next without serious effort.

The doubles victory clinched the tournament for the Americans, and Van Ryn having defeated their singles opponents, Friday.

STAGG FIELD, Chicago—It must be an old fashioned Southern California custom for Dean Cromwell's assorted collection of track and field stars proved their national collegiate supremacy for the second time in a row here Saturday afternoon.

As far as a battle of teams went there wasn't anything in it for the Trojans were way out there in front at the finish with 77 1/7 points. Their closest competitor was Ohio State of the Big Ten with 31 1/7 points. That is how close it was.

Southern California's point total set a new record for the meet and broke the high mark of 72 made by Stanford in 1928. Those Trojans picked off enough first places to win the meet the way the points were scored but Cromwell had numerous young men around who were prominent in other spots in 10 of the fifteen events.

Bob Hall Stars
For instance there was Bob Hall who captured total points honors with firsts in the discus and shot put. Sir Robert was quite a man Saturday afternoon.

Frank Wykoff also was his usual self in the 100-yard dash with win that was measured by the inches only over Eddie Tolan, the dusky whirlwind from Michigan.

Vic Williams produced another batch of ten points in the quarter mile while Ernie Payne likely would have

ROBINS, PEPPED BY WINS, LOOM AS 'DARK HORSE'

COLORFUL CLUB FROM BROOKLYN CLICKING NOW

Three Straight Wins Over Giants Save Their Morale

By JAMES L. KILGALLIN
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Brooklyn's colorful ball club has finally begun to click. After floundering for weeks the Robins, potentially one of the most powerful clubs in the National league, hit their stride just before they started on their June invasion of the West, with the result that they moved up from seventh place in the standing to the top of the second division—the best position they had attained since the season opened.

They were a happy, rollicking ball club as they headed West to prove to the baseball world that they aren't duds, as even the loyal fans of Flatbush were beginning to suspect. It took them a long time to get along—six weeks or more—but when they did they fairly electrified their adherents. Three straight victories at the Polo Grounds over the New York Giants, their arch rivals, was what started them off. These wins picked up the morale of the Robins immeasurably. They moved over to their home field and took a game from the slipping Boston Braves. All Brooklyn needed when they left that night for the West was another victory to put them at the 500 mark. They had won four straight. The Brooklyn fans could hardly believe it.

Inspired Against Braves
Against the Braves, the Robins played inspired baseball. The victories over the Giants had pepped them to the point where they seemed unbeatable. They fielded faultlessly and hit with all the power that long since had been expected of them by their warmest admirers. In a phrase, they were the ball club the Brooklyn sports writers said they would be before the season opened.

Brooklyn played Boston a double-header on the final showing at Ebbets Field, winning the first by a top-sided score and tying the second 3-to-3 in ten innings. The Robins were greatly disappointed in not having won the second game on the double bill which would have put them at the coveted 500 mark and tied them with the Braves for fourth place. They had the engagement virtually won in the ninth, nearly so, in fact, that if Pitcher Hollis Thurston had been able to slip one more strike over on Randy Moore the game would have been Brooklyn's. The score was 8 to 1 in the Robins' favor in the ninth when Moore poled a home run over the right field wall, scoring a Boston runner on first and tying the score. Neither side could break the score.

But it was a happy, confident, Brooklyn aggregation that headed West that night to "get up there in the chips." For weeks general "Uncle Wilbert" Robinson, the manager, had been in the dumps, but now he was smiling and at peace with the world.

O'Doul Happy Too
"Lefty" O'Doul, who had been in a slump, had snapped out of it and he, too, was happy. And so was Gordon Slater, the younger sent in to replace the injured Captain Glenn Wright at shortstop, for he had made good in a big way. And so were Bissnette, Herman, Frederick, Lombardi and other Brooklyn sluggers. They were all hitting the apple with vigor and frequency.

The sudden lifting of the morale of the Brooklyn team bode no good for the West clubs and promised to add to the thrills of the National league pennant race.

Brooklyn is the "dark horse" in the race. It is one of the most colorful clubs in the majors and will draw heavily if it can continue its winning gait. In their final double-header at home on May 31 against the Braves, the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a game at Ebbets Field. In the double-header against the Giants at the Polo Grounds the day before, approximately 60,000 spectators turned out. Thus, in two playing days, the Robins performed before 100,000 spectators.

MACKS BEATEN BY WHITE SOX IN 12 INNINGS

First 1931 Upset of World Champs by a Western Club

By COPELAND C. BURG

NEW YORK—A change of pasture is good for a cow and also for some baseball players.

When Cleveland traded Lou Fonscawe to the Chicago White Sox for the veteran Willie Kamm, baseball fans wondered what it was about. But both the Indians and Alabasters have showed improved infields since the exchange.

Fonscawe grabbed the honors Friday as the White Sox downed the Athletics 7 to 5, in a 12-inning contest, which marked the first 1931 defeat of the champions by a western club.

The former Clevelanders whacked one of those homers they tell about in the final inning. The great Grove had rushed in to rescue the faltering Mahaffey, who started the game, and Young Hank McDonald. Grove was charged with the defeat, his second of the season. The loss snapped the winning string at eight victories. Hal McKain limited the A's to two hits in the final seven innings.

Cards Win Again
George Watkins and Jimmie Collins, a couple of cardinal rookies, sent the New York Giants on their way talking to themselves, as St. Louis, National league leaders, took the third game in four starts, 8 to 7.

In the tenth inning Watkins singled, stole second and scored with the winning run, when Collins ripped a single off the right field screen.

The Yankees were one run behind the St. Louis Browns in the ninth inning with a man on first when none other than George Herman Ruth reverted to type and poled home No. 10, the final score was Yankees 8, Browns 7.

Old Tom Zachary of the Boston Braves, picked up from the New York Yankees, shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates 4 to 0. He gave only six hits, which strangely enough was one more than Boston got off Meine and Grant.

Morris Stops Indians
War drums of the Cleveland Indians ceased popping off at ten straight wins, Ed Morris hurling the Red Sox to a 4 to 3 victory over Pecknauth's surprise crew. Morris limited the Indians to eight hits.

A thrilling pitching duel between George Uhle of Detroit and Sam Jones of Washington, climaxed in the eleventh inning. Jones hit Walker, first man up; then a sacrifice, an infield out and a single by Johnson scored the sole run as the Senators wrapped it up, 1 to 0. The Senators knocked five hits, Detroit six.

Wally Roettger shot two triples and two singles as the Cincy Reds thrilled themselves by taking the third game in row. The victims were the Phillies and the score 9 to 2.

Old Jack Quinn, supplying the aspirin, Phelps, came through handsomely and won for Brooklyn, 3 to 1, over the Chicago Cubs.

Quinn took over with two on and two out in the seventh and Hack Wilson at bat. A terrific explosion of boing followed, when the great hitter grounded out. Scores by innings:

MAX SCHMELING IN SHAPE FOR STRIBLING GO

Manager Guards Him Close to Prevent Over-Training

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa.

Max Schmeling took a well-earned rest Saturday as activities at his training camp here underwent a lull pending the arrival today of a new contingent of sparring partners, the first batch being much the worse for wear at the hands of the champion.

To appreciate the story, it is necessary to relate that Hurley never was much of a fighter himself. He could box, but lacked the physique and stamina to withstand punishment.

"It was barnstorming through North Dakota with Russ LeRoy, a good boy," relates Hurley. "LeRoy was to fight a local boy and the affair was a sell-out."

"Just before we reached the town, the promoter wired me that LeRoy's scheduled opponent was unable to appear, and for Pete's sake to get a substitute. I was unable to find one, but had to do something. So I wired the promoter that I could get a sensational boxer, one Jack Doyle, who was enroute from New York to California, but was afraid Doyle would knock out LeRoy."

"The promoter wired back 'Fine.' 'Now Jack Doyle' was none other than myself. Nobody in the town knew me and I figured we could save the purse if I went into the ring with my own man."

"Just before we climbed through the ropes, I said to LeRoy, 'For Pete's sake don't punch me in the stomach, because you know I can't stand it. Just carry me along for six rounds and we can bluff it through.'"

"LeRoy agreed, but in the first round I forgot to pull one of my punches and clipped him pretty hard on the jaw. He got a little sore, and when the crowd began yelling for him to knock me out he lost his head completely and went after me hammer and tongs."

"I got sore, too, after LeRoy parked half a dozen nasty left hooks on my stomach, and we put on the best scrap the local fans had seen in many weeks. But I was in no condition and was ready for the cleaner's after three rounds."

"Between rounds the local fellow who was acting as my second told me 'I'd better get LeRoy in the next round or he'll get me. I figured the same way and went out to do or die. I couldn't finish him, but gave him such a scare that he became cautious, so I managed to last the six rounds, although he won the decision easily.'"

"All the while I was sore as a pup. When we got back to the dressing room I ripped off the gloves and decided to give LeRoy a lacing with my bare fists. But he came up and grinned, so I forgot about it."

"It was three or four years before the folks in that town learned that LeRoy was fighting his own manager that night."

BAER, UZCUDUN HARD AT WORK FOR RENO BOUT

Dempsey Is Promoter Of 20-Round Go on July Fourth

RENO, Nev.—(INS)—Max "The Magnificent" Baer and his wood-chopping opponent, Paulino Uzcudun of Spain, are hard at work preparing for their 20-round fistic entanglement here July fourth.

Jack Dempsey, promoter of the battle, is looking out for that little detail himself.

Uzcudun, the hero of every Basque sheepman that roams the hills and valleys of Nevada, goes through his daily paces at Steamboat Hot Springs ten miles south of Reno on the Carson City highway. He started active training Saturday afternoon.

He, like his colorful young California opponent, is taking this 20-round battle seriously. Twenty rounds under Nevada sunlight is quite a stretch for any boxer, Paulino believes. Juanita Olagual, young Spanish heavyweight, is expected today to act as Paulino's sparring partner.

Baer, big, boyish California heavyweight, has abandoned his sixteen-cylinder automobile. When he wants to get places, he sets out afoot. It all tends to aid the process of wearing those 216 pounds down to a meager two hundred. Jerry "The Greek," who trained Dempsey for his fights will assist in conditioning Baer.

Due to a ruling in kittenball at Wilton which prevents its teams from playing games away from home and with outside teams, Ben L. Gallaher, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was required to select the Nichols team to meet the Columbus Junction kittenball outfit in the first game of a doubleheader to be staged under the floodlights at Jefferson field Tuesday night.

Mr. Gallaher announced that Nichols boasts a strong team and should put up a good game with the Junction aggregation. The game will be a seven inning affair. In the other game of the doubleheader the Roach and Muscatine team will play the Iowa Pearls in a scheduled Factory league contest.

After missing a train, Jim Stroner of the Baltimore Orioles, rode from there being considerably by the members of the association.

Plans for a marshmallow roast to be held at the courts next week are being considered by the members of the association.

Local Star-Flite Tennis Stars Meet Washington Today
The ranking six tennis stars of the Muscatine Tennis Association star-flite tournament will meet the Washington team on the recently installed tennis courts on the west of the Geneva Golf and Country club, this afternoon providing the courts are dry enough to make playing permissible.

The six players who will represent the local team are Francis Weis, Bernard Harper, Bob Asthalter, Cy Peck, Ray Othmer and John Beid. Bernard Harper, who is president of the association, announced that within the next two weeks a lighting system will be installed on the new courts and that from then on the star-flite matches would be played at night.

MAX AND STRIB BOUT EXPECTED TO DRAW GREAT

Million-Dollar Gate Is Predicted for the Cleveland Go

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Ticket sale for the Max Schmeling-W. L. "Young" Stribling heavyweight championship tussle here on July 3 will reach a million dollars, Dick Dunn, an official of Madison Square Garden, who is in charge of the arrangements here, predicted Saturday night.

To realize a million-dollar gate, promoters will have to pack some 100,000 fans into Cleveland's new municipal stadium on the lakefront.

Citing Cleveland's location as the principal reason for his belief, Dunn stated that he envisioned a $1,000,000 gate from the first day that Cleveland was selected as the site.

"Cleveland is the center of a great territory where boxing is one of the most popular sports," Dunn declared. "Other Ohio cities, including Akron, Canton and Youngstown which are near to Cleveland, also have a great interest in the game."

MRS. M'CORMICK STILL FOND OF JIM STILLMAN

Happy Bride Is on Honeymoon Trip On East Coast

By JOSEPH A. COWAN

NEW YORK.—(INS)—Anne Stillman McCormick, a radiant and happy bride, sat with her young husband, Fowler P. McCormick in the porch swing of their honeymoon cottage at East Hampton Saturday and announced that she still loves Jim Stillman.

A reporter had asked her when the reconciliation between her and Mr. Stillman had come to an end. "It never ended," she replied. "For a moment she was silent, her eyes following the flight of the seagulls soaring over the waves of the sun kissed Atlantic."

Fond of Jim
"I'm very fond of Jim," she continued. "I love him dearly, if I can do anything in the world for him I will do it."

Then she looked at Fowler, smiled at him tenderly and squeezed his hand.

His mother, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, a daughter of the senior Rockefeller, did not approve of the marriage. Anne admitted someone asked her why her husband's family had not attended the wedding yesterday.

"Is it correct," she was asked, "that Mrs. McCormick tried to break up the wedding?"

Anne, who has always been noted for her honest frankness, did not hesitate for a second to answer that one.

"You don't think," she began with just a trace of irony in her voice, "that anyone like myself would be very acceptable to the Rockefellers?"

But that does not go for the groom's father, Harold McCormick. He wanted to be at the wedding to bestow his blessing on the bride but it was decided that a quiet simple ceremony would be preferable.

But Jim Stillman approved the match. She said before he called her on the phone to give her his congratulations and wish her the best of luck and happiness.

Was there a financial settlement? Yes, but not on her. The children were taken care of by their father. "I got nothing," said Anne.

"I wouldn't want anything. You see I love my children very much and I only wanted something for them. I don't need anything."

A corporation was formed in which each of the four children have an equal interest. They get the estate at Pleasantville and provision for its upkeep. Their allowances are to be continued by Mr. Stillman.

She was asked why she hadn't named the woman with whom Mr. Stillman had been found guilty of "adultery."

"Why should I?" she answered. "It wouldn't have been fair to her. She is probably a nice girl and I didn't want to smear her name."

Her former husband plans to return to Cuba after his trip to Europe and Anne may even visit him there. He asked her if she would, she said:

"I can possibly do so. I will," said Mrs. McCormick. Mr. Stillman is a very nice fellow and we are the warmest of friends.

Real Human
"But it isn't enough to live with someone who is just a friend. In fact it's dumb. It is not enough if persons are real human beings."

"Jim has had some hat," knocks," she went on sympathetically. "He has had some hard problems but I don't believe it is up to wives to solve their husband's problems. If that is the case, then I believe they should be just friends and not have their friendship complicated by marriage."

A bit of the breeze off the ocean disturbed her hat, a large-brimmed, red Panama. As she adjusted it, a large, very large and brilliant solitaire flashed on the ring finger of her left hand and next to it, her new wedding ring of platinum, set with diamonds.

"You see," she continued, "Jim and I were not fond of the same things. I'm not fond of golf. I'm not fond of dancing. I don't like the things he likes. I like very few people."

"I love beautiful clothes and jewelry and hats and stockings," Mrs. Stillman was gushing like a school girl.

"I have all those faults. And I love all the simple things of life." She certainly was a picture as she sat there swinging a bit now and then.

Wears Red Hat
Under the big red hat was a grey and red beach ensemble with a jacket, a silver navelo belt, grey stockings and sandals of red and white and blue. Fowler wore a tan sport suit with a green shirt and tie to match.

They will be out there for three weeks or so and then go to Chicago. That's where she'll make her home from now on, there and on pullman cars, she said.

For she's tremendously interested in her husband's work and she'll be with him constantly. He has the northwestern territory for the International Harvester and he has to travel a lot. She'll travel with him.

"You see," she explained, "Mr. McCormick is a very busy man. He has 28 branches under him. He works very hard and I want to work with him. I love work. That is one of the reasons why I married him."

One of the interviewers asked Mr. McCormick about their romance. Up to this time he had just sat there and enjoyed his wife's chattering with the reporters.

They met first, he explained, in 1919. A casual meeting while he was visiting Bud Stillman, his college chum, his wife's son.

"But it was not until 1920," he said, "that we really got to know each other. I was sorry for the trouble she was having and I did my best to cheer her up."

If a man doesn't enjoy his work the job won't please the boss.

Large Crowds Visit Local Telephone Office in Week

More than 1,000 people, residents of Muscatine and vicinity, took advantage of the open house week held by the local branch of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company's office, according to W. A. Mathews, manager. The event marked the golden anniversary of the telephone in Muscatine.

Guides conducted the visitors through the building and explained the workings of the intricate mechanism by which their voices are transmitted over the miles of wire. A new feature of the local telephone service is the 24 repeaters by which the human voice is amplified in long distance calls. These repeaters are placed about 50 miles apart throughout the entire system.

The average human voice is 1,000 cycles it was explained, and the instruments allow the transmission of sounds only between 200 cycles and 2,400 cycles. This eliminates considerable interference during the course of conversation. The repeaters are composed of a series of filterers and condensers which operate much the same as those used on a radio receiving set.

ATTACK MODERN EDUCATION PLAN

Presbyterian Pastors Seek Removal of College Head

DAYTON, Tenn.—(Special)—Again Tennessee, battleground of Dayton's famous "monkey" anti-evolution trial of a few years ago, is preparing for an attack on modern education.

The scene of action is to be Memphis, and this time Dr. Charles R. Diehl, president of Southwestern University, is the accused. And it's a co-ed pajama parties, dancing on the campus, and a theological controversy over hell fire and eternal damnation that have brought about the impending fireworks at the South's 56-year-old Presbyterian institution, which may cost Dr. Diehl his job.

Presidents Removal Asked
The controversy was set off recently when 11 ministers of the Presbyterian church, particularly the synods of Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana, and Alabama, prepared a signed indictment asking for Dr. Diehl's removal from office.

Soon a committee of five ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian church will meet in Memphis to examine Dr. Diehl and to collect evidence by which their voices are transmitted over the miles of wire. A new feature of the local telephone service is the 24 repeaters by which the human voice is amplified in long distance calls. These repeaters are placed about 50 miles apart throughout the entire system.

That the president of Southwestern will be called to the church's bar of justice to answer for conditions alleged to exist on the college campus is pretty much a foregone conclusion.

Ethel A. Montague Asks for Divorce Claiming Cruelty

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Ethel C. Montague entered suit for a divorce from Merton H. Montague of Lee county, in the district court on Saturday.

The petition, filed by Attorney F. L. Blinmeier, states that the couple married April 10, 1926 and separated in May, 1931. Mrs. Montague requests the court to award her both temporary and permanent alimony, suit money, attorney fees and costs. She asks that she be permitted to resume her former name of Ethel C. Robinson.

Issue Letters in Estate of F. Hess, Missing 16 Years

Clara F. Miller was on Saturday issued letters of administration as administratrix of the estate of Frederick Hess, an absentee, when the application of Harry G. Hess, was heard by Judge D. V. Jackson.

E. R. Tipton, attorney for the absentee, filed a report of his investigation into the disappearance of the missing man who was last heard from Dec. 25, 1914. At that time his mother resided in Muscatine, received a letter written by her son, from Kansas. The letter indicated Hess was in good health and spirits.

He was later known to have returned to his home in Milwaukee, Wis. He left home one morning as usual but failed to return and has not been heard from since.

Victim of Attack On Street Unable To Relate Details

Lester Irwin, 719 East Seventh street, was taken by the police to the Hershey hospital Saturday night at 9:30 after he had been picked up on Mulberry avenue between Front and Second street with a broken jaw and a badly cut face.

Whether he was slugged during a fight or held up, police were unable to ascertain as he was in a stupor when found. He had not recovered sufficiently at a late hour to give the police any information regarding the source of his injuries.

Charley R. Chapman Granted a Divorce

Charley R. Chapman was granted a divorce from Thelma V. Chapman by Judge D. V. Jackson in district court on Saturday. Desertion was charged by the plaintiff who was represented by Attorneys Drake and Wilson.

The couple was married at Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 20, 1919, according to the petition.

Head of Des Moines Playground System Is Taken by Death

DES MOINES.—(INS)—Miss Margaret McKee, 46, superintendent of the Des Moines playgrounds commission, and for 22 years a worker in Des Moines playgrounds and schools, was dead here Saturday following a ten days' illness.

Death came shortly before midnight Friday night, caused by a blood disease from which she had been suffering for more than three years.

Miss McKee was born in Newtownards, county Down, Ireland, and was educated in London. She was engaged in physical education work in London prior to her coming to Des Moines in 1909, becoming one of the first teachers of gymnasium classes in the public schools here.

During her recent illness she directed much of the city's playground work from her bed. She had been superintendent of the playgrounds commission for two years.

Let Contract for Heating Plant at McKinley School

A surety bond for the full amount of the bid of $4,351.40 for the installation of a heating plant in the McKinley grade school building was asked of the Sanitary Plumbing and Heating company by members of the board of education at a special meeting Saturday evening in the city hall. The contract for the work was let at a meeting of the board Friday evening.

The new plant, a vacuum steam heating type, will replace the old hot air heating equipment. Installation will be commenced soon, it was announced by a member of the firm.

Others firms which submitted figures on the heating system are the Crozier Plumbing and Heating company, A. C. Springborn and C. W. Ramseyer.

Postal Receipts Show Big Decline

WASHINGTON.—(INS)—There was a big drop in postal receipts in May as compared with those of May a year ago, the post office department announced Saturday.

At 50 selected cities receipts declined from $31,370,394.44 in May a year ago to $27,843,801.88 in May last, a decline of 11.23 per cent, while at 50 industrial cities the decrease was from $3,335,061.79 to $2,724,08, or 8.63 per cent.

Zeppelin to Carry Mail Into Arctic

BERLIN.—(INS)—The German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, will carry mail on its projected voyage to the North Pole, it was announced by the postal authorities here Saturday.

According to present plans, the mail will be dropped at the pole and picked up there by Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine "Nautilus," which the dirigible is scheduled to meet at the "top of the world."

As We See It

The Concluding Chapter.

William Randolph Hearst proposes a five-billion dollar loan by the government to create more jobs through the expansion of a public works program and thereby increase prosperity. It is his idea that a new era of good times will follow and that the surplus can be used in repaying the government.

That is an optimistic proposal but it is doubtful if it would work out that way. Five billions is an enormous sum. Look at it as one will it would be a debt piled on to a nation already a billion "in the red." It must be paid back and the burden of paying would in itself tend to offset any advantages that may be gained by additional temporary employment and eventually would retard solid business recovery rather than aid it.

Mr. Hearst did state truth, however, when he asserted that improvements in machinery cut production costs tremendously thus increasing the profits of industry, and then added:

"Obviously some reasonable part of these profits should have gone to the management of industry, but the greater part should have gone to the working masses. In other words the increased profits should have been distributed largely in higher wages and shorter working hours. If this had been done the shorter working hours would have prevented any lack of employment because a greater number of men would have been employed to fill out the working week.

"If wages had increased in proportion to the productivity of modern machinery and the consequent increase in the profits of industry, the purchasing power of the public would have been enhanced and the consumption of all kinds of goods and products would have been maintained at a high level or raised to a still higher level. When profits increased in industry, while labor got a small share, the rest was transferred into increased capitalization."

Mr. Hearst might have said increased over-capitalization, worthless paper some of it, which vanished when the crash came and securities dropped to their true values.

Suppose a firm in ordinary times, through wise management and the loyal cooperation of the employees, rises from a small industry so that it is finally capitalized at $500,000—and worth it. Along comes a boom year, possibly two or three boom years, and it is noised around in financial circles that this firm is making 50 per cent net profit. Then comes a Wall street brokerage house or banking firm pointing out to the owner that a 50 per cent profit on $500,000 is 10 per cent on $2,500,000. The capital is increased to the latter sum, placed on the market, and because of the prospectus, based on the earnings on the smaller capitalization, you and I and all the other thousands of suckers rush in and buy. The owner has probably more than doubled his wealth on paper over night. The banking or brokerage firm has been paid a good fat commission—and the public is holding the bag.

In a year or so things are not going so good. Large stockholders and the directors are beginning to complain. Business is falling off. What's the matter? Let's find out. Enters the "efficiency expert." Old Bill, who has been in the company's employ for thirty or more years, and scores like him are lopped off the pay roll. Some bright chap puts in a machine that can do the work of three or more men and more are lopped off. But things continue to go from bad to worse. It isn't the company, the expert says, it is general business conditions. The slump has arrived. Much of the surplus is gone; more men are laid off and a whole lot of people in the investment class discover that the stock which they purchased because of the glowing prospectus fails to glow.

Supposing the other course, the right course, had been followed? Supposing when Wall street sought to dip its fingers into the sugar barrel the owner had said:

"No, I guess we will go along this way. It is true we have had an exceptionally prosperous year but boom times don't last forever. I believe we should pile up a little surplus for a rainy day. I also know I didn't do it all myself. If it were not for the loyal help of my employees prosperity would not have perched on this plant. I'm going to pass around some bonuses this year and every other year when our profits exceed a certain reasonable amount."

Then Old Bill when he opens his pay envelope one fine day discovers that there is an additional check covering from five to ten per cent of his year's wages.

"Whoopie!" says Bill. "Now we can buy that radio, get me a new rug for the front room and buy a lot of other needed things without dipping into our savings."

Money is put into circulation, the store keeper, the wholesaler, the manufacturer, the maker of the raw products, even the factory where Bill is employed, all profit and the business level is maintained because the public has money to spend.

Give labor an incentive and it never fails, Mr. Employer. Pile it up for yourself and you are also piling up trouble, if not for yourself at least for hundreds of others who depend upon you for their livelihood. Until such time as labor is given more consideration all the preaching of all the theorists in Christendom cannot remove the stench from an economic system designed for the few at the expense of the masses.

The foregoing is our last editorial written for the Free Press. If we can leave a kindly thought for labor we will consider our time here well spent. When you read this we will have departed for the east after a residence of five months, during which we have learned to appreciate Muscatine and its people. Studying the likes and dislikes, particularly the latter, of many of its citizens we have reached the conclusion that these opinions are more a "state of mind," a "habit," rather than based on any real merit. Mr. Baker's front page editorial the other night in which he mentioned the Memorial Day crowd of 50,000 last year dropping to not over 250 this year speaks volumes in itself. It is the true picture of the entire situation—and you, reader, know it. The machinery for an unprecedented growth is here. All that is needed is to take advantage of it.

Mr. Norman Baker has been the best of employers. In a newspaper experience of about two decades we can say in all frankness that we have never held an editorial position so devoid of dictatorial policies as this. Needless to assert, it is not because of anything connected with the Free Press, and much less Mr. Norman Baker, himself, that we are leaving.

Newspapers are not made in a day. Recognition is based on merit. That the Free Press has thousands of well wishers has been amply substantiated by innumerable letters and expressions of approval. To be worthy of this highly prized opinion is, we know, the dominating thought of Mr. Baker. On the front page of the Free Press you can read each day: "The Voice of the People," "Loyalty to the Midwest," "Dedicated to Fair Play, Equality and Truth." If the public would fall in line behind these slogans, especially that of "Fair Play," the Free Press will attain the success which it so richly deserves.

That the same loyal cooperation that has been extended to us will also be extended to our successor is the parting wish of the writer.

Our Platform for the People is:

1. Less taxation.
2. Fewer State Commissions.
3. Universal school books.
4. Lower freight rates.
5. Return of river transportation.
6. A cleanup of some state institutions.
7. More efficiency in public offices.

Good Health Club

PERSONAL HYGIENE

Most everywhere we go these days we see suggestions relating to hygiene for different purposes.

There is one type of hygiene which is vitally important if we would maintain general bodily health.

As one writer says, "If an understanding of what constitutes a fine proportion of true, natural hygiene, and proper food, were in practical control of human life, such problems as sickness and disease, and early loss of life, must be solved, and solved in about the only way by which morbidity can be solved."

A practical way for the prevention of disease is in the education of the family in how to have better health by the eating of better food.

The greatest benefit from the greatest number can come from spreading correct principles, and simple practices, as to family food and better ways of preparing it.

As this writer again says, "I believe that better human health is dependent on a wider and better knowledge of how to use vegetable food. I believe that medical education is much at fault in an over-extension of specialization."

The medical college man learns very little of the practical life, and the specialist too little of a liberal medical training in applied hygiene and human diet."

The doctor's education is quite innocent, as a rule, of practical and common sense ways for health and of practical ways of healing.

It can be said that but few of our doctors have a practical working adaptation to real life and safe and sane living.

When it comes down to brass tacks in regard to being healthy, there is nothing of more importance than "internal" hygiene through the proper use of food.

This statement cannot be repeated too often. The various tissues of the body are made of the foods which we put into it. When we eat things which the body cannot handle, the body becomes clogged up; there is a loss of vitality which results in inefficient elimination.

This causes a serious unhygienic condition of the body and especially of the digestive tract. To know how to eat properly is not the second, but the first, important consideration of living. The human diet is not a fad, it is a necessity. Sometimes meat is doubtful unless care is used in purchasing and preparing it. Vegetables furnish a source of good palatable, nutritious food at all times. There are some people who require very little meat. The protein vegetables take the place of meat very nicely with many people.

Vegetables like potatoes and peas may be cooked together with about a cupful of water, added, cook slowly, with low flame, for about one-half hour, season with the smallest amount of salt. It will be found good. Other vegetables may be combined and cooked the same way.

The body, to thrive and be healthy, must have a sufficient amount of fresh garden foods. When meat is eaten, this is especially true. The fibrous garden foods are usually best eaten cooked until soft. They will digest more easily. These garden foods also furnish the needed bulk for the intestinal muscles to get hold of. Suitable garden foods may be secured practically the year round and more of them should be eaten.

When a person makes the greater portion of their meals vegetables and green foods there is no danger of over-eating. One can eat any time when hungry without fear of ill consequences.

Congested areas in the body can be dissolved by using fruit juices to drink between meals.

A reasonable amount of a simple plain bread is all right. Boiled brown rice can take the place of regular bread to add variety. Dark heavy, soggy, breads are not always best. The question of whether dark bread is responsible for better health than the white bread is questionable.

High Prairie

HIGH PRAIRIE, Ia.—(Special)—Annual election of officers of the Ladies' Aid of the High Prairie church held Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. H. Slack, Muscatine, resulted as follows: President, Mrs. J. H. Boller; vice president, Mrs. C. J. W. Baughman; secretary, Mrs. C. J. Minder; assistant secretary, Mrs. B. H. Hitchcock; treasurer, Mrs. M. R. Walts. About 30 persons attended the meeting at which it was decided to disband until September.

Frank Leimkuhler father of Mrs. Slack, invited members of the society to meet at his home in Moscow for their regular meeting in September. Mrs. E. Eichelberger and Mrs. B. H. Hitchcock were named as a committee to further plans for the annual Fourth of July picnic to be held in the church basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Boshart were guests at the Rice-Serner wedding at Mount Pleasant Thursday.

Richard Dill, Dayton, O., arrived Tuesday to spend the summer at the E. W. Hoopes home.

Miss Lucile Boller went to Mount Pleasant Thursday to participate in a breakfast Friday morning at the Iowa Wesleyan college.

Frances Foster spent a few days last week with her cousins, Wayne and Doris Eichelberger.

Elmer Mapes of Muscatine has visited at the Otis Green home since Thursday.

Paradoxical though it may seem, contractors are frequently engaged in widening streets and alleys.

It is the man at the little end of the horn who is either hooted or applauded by the crowd.

In trying to figure out the problem of life some men subtract what they own from what they owe.

JIMMY SKUNK IS VERY MAD

When Jimmy Skunk is angry then every one watch out. It's better far at such a time to be nowhere about.

Jimmy Skunk was angry this time, and no mistake. He was just plain mad, and when Jimmy Skunk feels that way no one wants to be very near him. You know how the fellows in the world ordinarily. He minds his own business, and if no one interferes with him he isn't angry with no one. But once he is aroused and feels that he isn't being treated fairly, look out for him!

And this time Jimmy was mad clear through as he got to his feet and shook himself to see that he was all there. I don't know that any one could blame him. To be awakened from a comfortable nap by being rolled over and over and shaken nearly to death, Jimmy had been by that ride down the hill in the old barrel was enough to make any one mad. So he really is to be blamed for feeling as he did.

Now Jimmy can never be accused of being stupid. He knew that an old barrel which has been lying in one place for a long time doesn't move of its own accord. He knew that that barrel couldn't possibly have started down the hill unless some one had made it start, and he didn't doubt in the world that whoever had done it had known that he was inside and had done it to make him uncomfortable.

So just as soon as he had made sure of that he was really alive and quite whole he looked to see who was about, and who could have played such a trick on him. The first person he saw was Reddy Fox. In fact Reddy was right close at hand. You see he had raced down the hill after the barrel to see who was in it when he heard the strange noises coming from it as it rolled and bounded down.

If Reddy had known that it was Jimmy Skunk he would have been quite content to remain at the top of the hill. But he didn't know, and if the truth be known he had hopes that it might prove some one who would furnish him with a good breakfast.

So quite out of breath with running Reddy arrived at the place where the old barrel had broken to pieces just as Jimmy got to his feet.

Now when Jimmy Skunk is angry he doesn't bite and he doesn't scratch. You know Old Mother Nature has provided him with a little bag of perfume which Jimmy doesn't object to in the least, but which makes most people want to hold their noses and run. He never uses it excepting when he is angry or dangerous, but when he does use it his enemies always turn tail and run. That is why he is afraid of no one and why every one respects Jimmy and his rights.

He used it now, and he didn't waste any time about it. He threw some of that perfume right in the face of Reddy Fox before Reddy had a chance to turn or to say a word. "Take that!" snapped Jimmy Skunk. "Perhaps it will teach you not to play tricks on your honest neighbors!"

Poor Reddy. Some of that perfume got in his eyes and made them smart dreadfully. In fact for a little while he couldn't see at all. And then the smell of it was so strong that it made him quite sick. He rolled over and over on the ground, choking and gasping and rubbing his eyes. Jimmy Skunk just stood and looked on and there wasn't a bit of pity in his eyes.

"How do you like that?" said he. "You thought yourself very smart rolling me down hill in a barrel, didn't you? You might have broken my neck."

"I didn't know you were in that barrel, and I didn't mean to roll it down the hill anyway," whined Reddy, when he could get his voice.

"Huh!" snorted Jimmy Skunk. "I didn't believe a word of it."

"I didn't. Honest I didn't," protested Reddy. "I ran into the barrel by accident chasing Peter Rabbit. I didn't have any idea that any one was in it."

"Huh!" said Jimmy Skunk again. "If you were chasing Peter Rabbit, where is he now?"

Reddy had to confess he didn't know. He was nowhere in sight and he certainly hadn't had time to reach the dear Old Brier Patch. Jimmy looked this way and that way but there was no sign of Peter Rabbit. "Huh!" said he again, turning his back on Reddy Fox and walking away with a great deal of dignity.

People's Pulpit

People's Pulpit:

I have read the T. B. test law in the Free Press and note that a sworn appraiser is one of the requirements. When the test under the county plan was made here three years ago no sworn appraisers were made. I wrote the governor and asked him why, if he intended to enforce the law, he did not enforce all of it instead of just that part that enabled the vets, serum manufacturers and packers to get theirs. Cattle were "guessed off" and little Jerseys put in at $125 and $150. I have heard that some farmers, seeing a chance to sell at a good price, took a hammer and hit the cow's tail. The bump raised indicated a reactor, thus disposing of a little cow at a big price. Some science, this test test.

Mrs. N. A. Benton, Bentonport, Iowa.

People's Pulpit:
I just got through listening to Mr. Norman Baker's talk over the radio

(7:15 P. M.) I wish he would talk longer. I am writing to suggest that Mr. Baker talk over the air about 30 minutes earlier each evening and I believe there are hundreds of other farmers who also wish it could be arranged. I almost always eat supper around six o'clock and I sure hate to go out to finish my chores without hearing his talk. In the winter time I would rather hear him talk around 6:30. Of course he knows his business better than I do and if it is more convenient for him to talk at the same time, winter and summer, it is perfectly O. K. with me. But if he could change the time I believe he would have many more listeners as other farmers must do the chores the same as I. If Mr. Baker decides to change the time I believe we farmers would appreciate it if he would mention the change in his talk some evening.

Manhattan Days and Nights

By Walter Trumbull

"One thing I have learned," says Walter Prichard Eaton, who has been lecturing at Harvard, "is that the world does not really mean a thing to a lot of the youngsters of today. It is as vague to them as the Civil War."

Yet there is no mystery here. The world was ended November 11, 1918. That is almost thirteen years ago. The eighteen-year-old youngster of today was then five years old. What would he remember of those ancient days? It was on May 30, 1927, that a blond young man took off for Paris in an airplane called the Spirit of St. Louis. That was only four years ago, yet the other day they tell me that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh walked across Fifty-ninth street without attracting a crowd. Every new generation creates a new world. It has its own problems, its own thrill, its own heroes. Anything beyond the vision of the near-sighted eyes of memory is nothing but a name.

Walter Prichard Eaton and John Held, Jr., are by way of being amateur ornithologists! From a conversation they had recently, I gather that they can tell most of the birds of North America either by the cut and color of their habits, or by their voices. I tried to get in a few words concerning birds I know, such as the parrot, the canary, the duck, the turkey, the goose, the chicken, and the robin, if he gets close enough so that I can see his vest, but it seemed that these were of too common a variety to interest bird specialists. I then mentioned the great auk and the dodo, without much better success, although they did tell me in chorus that the dodo was of the pigeon family. That started me on an interesting story of a pigeon family on a roof top down the street, but they were not listening.

Mr. Held told of recovering a fallen nest and naming it up somewhere and of how the former tenants came back and lived in it. I think those must have been cuckoo birds. How did they know how good a carpenter Mr. Held was? That nest might have been wholly unsafe. Mr. Eaton related the tale of a phoebe bird, which came back to the porch of his house in Stockbridge for many years. I should have supposed he would have become so tired of seeing that bird that he would have thrown a brick at it. I never did like these small Mexican hairy birds, anyhow. If I were going to have a bird around the front porch, I'd get me a sizeable specimen, such as an ostrich or an emu, which would be some protection to the place. You may doubt the protective qualities of the ostrich, but this bird can give a mule lesson in kicking, and did ever get hit with an ostrich egg?

A theatrical star is still wondering why, in a certain city, he got turning his back on Reddy Fox and walking away with a great deal of dignity.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

NO REGRETS

By listening to sage advice. When I was twenty—more or less I found out all about the price of what my elders called success. I learned that saving, bit by bit, and being always shrewd and thrifty might be rich enough to quit when I was fifty.

My parents pointed out the men who took ambition for their guide. Who rested only now and then and left large fortunes when they died. But such as these who kept their health, retained, as well, their native ardor. And, after they'd amassed great wealth, toiled even harder.

I never envied folks like these. Whose only aim was to succeed. Who sacrificed delightful ease To pile up cash they did not need; And often, when a chance I met, Deliberately failed to grab it, Because I did not want to get The working habit.

And now, although before my gate With hunger in his baleful glance The predatory wolf may wait Until at last he has his chance, I'm glad that while the years went by I did not slave for wealth, and health.

Did you realize that the Oberammergau Passion Play took place right here on this continent? I didn't. However, I read this in a newspaper the other day: "Mrs. George Andrews of Dalton will address the missionary society of the Oberammergau church on her impressions of the Oberammergau passion play at the regular monthly meeting in the chapel Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock."

Maybe the writer meant: At the regular monthly meeting in the chapel Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock, Mrs. George Andrews of Dalton will address the missionary society of the Oberammergau church on her impressions of the Oberammergau passion play. Is this not better and clearer? Or shall we just say clearer?

Of course you know the meaning of "slave," but do you know the origin of the word? It comes from Slavonians. These were a people the Franks often delighted in capturing. They made captives and held in bondage so many times that we decided to supply the word "slave" to any one held in bondage.

COLLEGE MEN FAVORED TO WIN IN LINCOLN MEET

CAMPUS YOUTHS IN RARE FORM FOR JULY 4TH

Coaches Confident as They View Warmups For Olympics

School is out but the stars of the college cinder paths and fields are still in training. Most of the youngsters who won and placed high in the greatest year of collegiate track and field enter the National A. A. U. Championships in Lincoln on the Fourth.

And this year's crop of college stars is the best of all time, for record breakers abound throughout the lists.

There are many brilliant men in the club ranks—but they will have a mighty hard time keeping the youngsters out of the first places.

Many Records Fall

The I. C. 4-A summary at Philadelphia reads like a page out of the record books. A number of 1931 bettered or equalled records in six events. The national collegiate meet a week later in Chicago saw a continuation of this year's brilliant performances.

The whole spring was like that. Records were broken in dual meets and the big relays.

Lawson Robertson of Penn. who again will be head coach of the United States Olympic track and field team, and Joseph Townsend England of Baltimore, chairman of the track and field committee have been watching these brilliant youngsters with rapidly mounting optimism.

Prospects Splendid

"It is hard to re-train one's self," said the dignified Mr. England, at the end of the collegiate season. "And we're expecting more brilliant at the Lincoln meet. I believe we have the greatest material we've ever had. The prospects are splendid in a majority of the Olympic events."

Robertson pointed to the closely contested events in earlier meets to emphasize the abundance of good men.

"They're youngsters, too," he said. "Many of them will be even greater next year. Quite a few college sophomores were among the winners this spring. It will be quite a battle in the tryouts next summer."

"And, of course, we have the advantage of performing at home which will give us a better chance to bring the men along smoothly and get them at their best in the big games."

Must Look West

From now on the track enthusiasts of the east must look westward, for starting with the Lincoln meet all the big stars are now until the end of next summer will be staged in the west.

Even the I. C. 4-A meet goes west next year, Berkeley having been chosen.

From spring until late summer California will be host to the whole army of track and field stars. But many of the chief contenders will be "native sons." Southern California, Stanford and California have the bulk of the country's best right now. To say nothing of the stars carried by the athletic clubs of the coast.

West Coast Leads

There are a few sterling athletes scattered through the East. Ten in the east, and here and there a good man in the south, the southwest or the west. But the west coast leads. Wyckoff, Eastman, Williams, Hables, Dyer, Graber, Churchill, Payne, Jones, Barber and Hall are a few of the celebrities who piled up points for the big coast schools.

Add to that array Keller, Tolian, Kelly, Halliwell, Coan, Devoe, Bullwinkle, McCuskey, Chamberlain, Sentman, Conner, O'Connor, Record and Berlinger and you have the all-stars.

Others may flash across the horizon within the next year. A lot of sophomores made the grade in 1931.

Keller May Be Better

Ohio's crack hurdler, Jack Keller, is a sophomore and may be even better next summer. He did the 120 yards in 14.3 but unfortunately knocked over two hurdles.

Keller got his nickname Jack from the four initials in his name which is, in full, John Alton Claude Keller. He stands six feet, three and a half inches and weighs 158 pounds.

There will be many old timers at Lincoln but the toughest will be tough for them. Harold Osborne, on two Olympic teams already, is desirous of making it three. He's training now for Lincoln.

Last year's big meet in Pittsburgh saw many records tumble and this year's speediest in Lincoln will outdo Pittsburgh.

And that won't make Robertson, England and their fellow Americans downhearted.

Phantom Finn, Lion Hearted, Middle Aged, Tries Marathon

By TED SMITS
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK—A middle-aged man with thinning hair and unsmiling countenance will walk unobtrusively to his marks when the marathon runners are called at the Los Angeles Olympic games next summer, and then for two hours and a half there will be waged over the countryside surrounding the California metropolis one of the most interesting experiments in the history of sport.

This man, already past his prime as athlete, go, is none other than the incomparable Paavo Nurmi of Finland, sometimes known as the phantom Finn, and unquestionably the greatest distance runner that ever pulled on a spiked shoe.

Already the possessor of virtually all world's records from one mile to ten, and an Olympic champion many times over, the mysterious European wants to climax his career with a victory in the Olympic games. Even his bitterest rivals are almost ready to cheer him on.

There is no question but that he is slower than when he turned in that mile in 4:10.4 in 1923, a mark the lads have been shooting at ever since, but never even approached.

He is slower than when he dominated the distance runs at the Paris Olympics, and turned in an amazing collection of first places and records. But he is still Paavo Nurmi, with the flawless stride, the heart, and the indomitable will to win.

At the present writing almost everyone is willing to concede that he has more than speed enough for the twenty-five mile or so grind. No one seems competent to contest the honors with him, although between now and next summer there may arise some new champion either here or abroad: it's courage enough to make a race of it.

With Jole Ray turned professional, the United States has virtually no one to offer unless it is Clarence De Mar, the veteran New England marathoner. But De Mar in his prime never possessed Nurmi's blinding speed, enough of which is probably left to make the Finn unbeatable.

Should Nurmi win the marathon at Los Angeles, it will be more than a victory for Finland. It will actually be a victory for the Olympic games. Even his bitterest rivals are almost ready to cheer him on.

Play Is Slow in Star Flite Tournament This Season

Francis Weis, Muscatine's young tennis star, through his recent victory over Bob Asthaler, still remains the champion of the Muscatine Tennis association's star-flite tournament. Bernard Harper advanced a notch into second place by downing Asthaler, who originally occupied this post.

The tournament, which is in its second year, proved to be a big success last season and this year more competition is expected. The rankings of the players this year were taken from the way they finished last season with Weis on top.

Due to the rain of the past two weeks little progress has been made and few changes in the standings were recorded. Cy Peck advanced two notches from sixth to fourth through victories over John Baird and Ray O'Hara.

F. E. McFarland, who was far down in the standings early this season, advanced one place by downing Gene Gallaher and now is in eighteenth place.

Twenty-four players are now recorded on the list of the tournament, ten new contestants having been added. They are Harold Knigsacker, Edward Burns, F. E. McFarland, J. Nagle, Lyle Day, William Davidson, George Voler, William Houk, Gene Rosenthal, and Harold Fuller.

President Bernard Harper announced that the girls division of the star-flite would begin some time next week. Miss Myrtle Othmer is on top of the girls' division.

PRIMO CARNERA MAY QUIT RING FOR WRESTLING

Huge Italian's Boss Is Disgusted by Flood Of Injunctions

SHRDLU SHRDLU SHRDLU UUU
By LES CONKLIN
INS Sports Writer

LONG BEACH, N. Y.—Irrked beyond measure by a flood of injunctions and other legal annoyances, M. Leon See Saturday threatened to take Primo Carnera out of the heavyweight boxing picture completely and lead the Italian giant back to his first love—wrestling.

The Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois, which last winter signed Carnera to meet the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling championship tilt at Cleveland on July 3, recently slapped an injunction on Primo restraining him from going through with a scheduled bout with Jack Sharkey at the Field, Brooklyn, next Wednesday. See subsequently decided to pick up some bread and butter money by substituting Pat Redmond, the unknown soldier from Ireland, against Primo for the same date.

In 10,000 Matches
When informed that the Garden attorneys were attempting to block the Carnera-Redmond bout, See threw up his hands in disgust and announced he was ready to turn Primo's talents to the wrestling mat. He made the astounding disclosure that the vast Venetian, who is now twenty-six, had participated in no less than 10,000 wrestling matches between the ages of eighteen to twenty-five while traveling with a carnival in Italy.

"We are sick and tired of injunctions," said See. "If they won't let us fight Sharkey, we will turn to wrestling, where we will be free. Primo was a good wrestler years ago in Italy when he traveled from village to village, wrestling all corners. He averaged ten matches a day and would take on 50 men over some week-end. In three years he must have been in nearly 10,000 matches."

The grinning Primo confirmed his manager's remarks and even admitted he had lost a match occasionally when tired.

"If we decide to go back to wrestling," See continued, "Primo will meet any man in the world. London and Joe Sonnenberg included, and we will forfeit our end of the purse if Primo does not throw his man in five minutes."

In the writer's opinion, Carnera could earn more wrestling than boxing in the event of a tremendous popularity of the mat game at present. He certainly could play to a $60,000 house at Madison Square Garden on any one while appearing as a grappler, and probably could fill a ball park in the summer.

See even intimated that he might be willing to send Carnera against the Schmeling-Stribling winner if the Garden people continue to plaster injunctions on him.

MORNING SUN
GIRL IS WED

MORNING SUN, Ia.—(Special)—Miss Isabelle McElhinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. McElhinney living south of town, and Edwin P. Lotz, of Burlington, were married Thursday, June 4 at 4:00 p. m. in the Grace M. E. church in Burlington, the Rev. Fred Skewes officiating. The altar was decorated in roses, freesias and peonies, with a large brass candelabra, and tall white cathedral candles at either side. The first three rows of seats were reserved for the relatives and a few special friends.

Miss Helen Ogden sang, "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning," accompanied on the organ by Miss Olive Marie Lotz, sister of the bridegroom, who also played the processional and the recessional. Miss Geneva McElhinney, sister of the bride and one of the bridesmaids, was dressed in beige lace over satin and wore a headband of pink sweetpeas. The other bridesmaid, Miss Esther Stark of Fraser, wore rose beige crepe with a headband of lavender sweetpeas. Both carried armfuls of spring flowers.

Louisa Jane McClurkin was flower girl. J. Wesley Lotz, of Wayne, Ohio, brother of the bridegroom, and Ross L. Barnett, of Bloomfield, were ushers.

Following the ceremony the bridal party motored to the country home of the bride's parents near Morning Sun, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Lotz will leave on a wedding trip, after which they will go to Spirit Lake, where Mr. Lotz will attend summer school at the biological laboratories.

Salisbury Leaves Baker Enterprises To Manage Hotel

Charles Salisbury, sales manager of the Tangley Callaphone business of Norman Baker, Saturday terminated a six-year connection with the Norman Baker enterprises to become active manager of Salisbury's European hotel at Fourth and Cedar streets.

Mr. Salisbury also had become well known to radio fans as an announcer at station K-TNT. He was one of the first entertainers and announcers at the Muscatine station when it went on the air five years ago and had continued "on the air" since.

One of the features which attained great popularity over K-TNT was Prof. Daffy's school class. The local station was the first in the country to develop this entertainment feature and has since been followed by many stations. The original Prof. Daffy was Charles Salisbury.

Mr. Salisbury's father, Charles Salisbury, Sr., owner of the Salisbury hotel has been compelled by ill health to relinquish active management.

How The Territory Is Divided

DISTRICT NO. 1.—District one will include all of the participants who reside within the city limits of Muscatine. At least one, possibly two of the Grand Prizes, and as many cash awards as there are active candidates must be awarded in this district.

DISTRICT NO. 2.—District two will include all of the participants who reside outside of the city limits of Muscatine and EAST of the Cedar River to Moscow, thence from Moscow west of the C. R. I. & P. Railroad to the city limits of Muscatine on the north, thence east of the Mississippi River from Muscatine south. At least one, possibly two of the Grand Prizes, and as many cash awards as there are active candidates must be awarded in this district.

DISTRICT NO. 3.—District three will include all of the participants who reside outside of the city limits of Muscatine and WEST of the Cedar River to Moscow, thence from Moscow west of the C. R. I. & P. Railroad to the city limits of Muscatine on the north, thence west of the Mississippi River from Muscatine south. At least one, possibly two of the Grand Prizes, and as many cash awards as there are active candidates must be awarded in this district.

The Plan in Brief:

The object of the big distribution is two-fold: primarily to increase the already large subscription list of The Mid-West Free Press, to collect arrearages and advance subscribers, and at the same time afford our friends and readers an unparalleled opportunity to profit, and in a big way through their spare time during the next few weeks. So it is a plan that works both ways, and to the ultimate good of all concerned.

In order to gain this end quickly and advantageously, the most liberal and attractive list of prizes ever offered by a newspaper in this section has been made ready for distribution among those who participate most heartily.

Ambition and energy are the only requisites for success. The plan adopted is the fairest and most impartial conceivable. There will be no "double vote" offers, extra votes given or any other vote inducement whatsoever other than those outlined here, inaugurated during this competition. Neither will there be any long term subscriptions accepted. The plan of the campaign is straight forward and simple and is fully outlined in this announcement.

Let it be understood at the very outset that this is not a "beauty" nor "popularity" contest, but a strictly legitimate competitive proposition for enterprising men and women, and boys and girls, and one in which no element of chance enters. One feature of this competition is the fact that there will be no losers.

How the Votes Are Secured

The next step is to call on or write the Campaign Department for a free working outfit, consisting of an official receipt book, sample copies of the Mid-West Free Press and other information relative to launching an active campaign.

Thus equipped you have but to go to your friends and neighbors, relatives and acquaintances and have them clip the free coupons from their papers and pay up a subscription to The Mid-West Free Press through you. THAT'S ALL THERE IS TO IT! However, you will never win anything unless you make the start, and while it will not be a very difficult matter to capture one of the big prizes, nevertheless, it is necessary that you start early. You must plan out your campaign the same as any successful business man plans out his work for a season, and above everything else, let no one discourage you, but stick to it and finish. Anything worth having is worth striving for. A few short weeks and you may be riding in your own automobile.

It takes votes to win, and votes are secured in two ways: First, by clipping the coupons appearing in The Mid-West Free Press. Start gathering them NOW. After a short time these coupons will be reduced to a lesser number of votes. The only restriction placed on voting coupons is that they must be deposited at the Campaign Department of The Mid-West Free Press on or before the expiration date printed thereon. Get your friends to saving these coupons for you—they all count. The other and faster way to get votes is by securing new and renewal subscriptions to The Mid-West Free Press. On each subscription turned in a certain number of votes are issued varying according to the amount paid and during which "period" same are received at the Campaign Department. See schedule of votes on display page.

EARLY START MEANS EASY FINISH

The advantage of an early start are manifest. Not only do you have the FULL TIME in which to secure the winning votes, but now and up to and including July 27th you will receive the maximum schedule of votes on subscriptions, while those who put off entering until a later date will have to take what is left.

How the Prizes Will Be Awarded

The four major prizes will be awarded to the three district leaders and the next highest candidate irrespective of district. The one polling the highest number of votes taking first choice of the four awards, the one polling the second highest number of votes taking second choice and so on until the major prizes have been awarded.

The candidate polling the next highest number of votes in each district after the four major prizes have been awarded will receive $150 in cash each, then the candidate polling the next highest number of votes in each district will receive $75 in cash each.

Every candidate will be paid a commission of 10 percent on all the business they secure as they turn it in at campaign headquarters.

How To Enter The Campaign

The first step in order to become a candidate and compete for a prize, is clip the nomination coupon appearing on this page, fill in your name and address and mail or deliver to the Campaign Department of The Mid-West Free Press, Muscatine, Iowa. This Coupon entitles you or the person whom you might nominate, to 5,000 FREE votes. These votes are given you as a starter, and speeds you on your way to win. Only one such nomination coupon will be accepted for each candidate entered.

THE ADVISORY BOARD

It is the sincere aim of this newspaper to conduct the election, from start to finish, in a fair honorable and impartial manner. Every precaution has been taken to safe-guard interests of participants and absolute honesty in all dealings is guaranteed. However, not all wisdom lies with any one man or institution, and for that reason, an Advisory Board has been decided upon, whose functions shall be to decide any question of sufficient moment that might happen to arise during the competition and from which a committee shall be selected to act as judges and count the votes the last night of the election, names to be announced later.

- No employee or near relative of any employee in the Midwest Free Press office is eligible to enter this distribution. The Midwest Free Press reserves the right to reject any nominations.
- The winners of the prizes will be decided by their accredited votes, said votes being represented by ballots issued according to the rules of the campaign.
- Candidates are not confined to their own particular town or community in which to secure votes and subscriptions, but may take orders anywhere.
- Candidates will be allowed to collect subscriptions and renewals as well as entirely new subscriptions and votes will be issued on both.
- Votes are free. It costs the subscriber nothing extra to vote for his or her favorite. Subscribers should ask for votes when paying their subscriptions.
- Votes cannot be purchased. Every cent accepted through the election department must represent subscriptions.
- Votes are not transferable. Candidates cannot withdraw in favor of another candidate. Should a candidate withdraw from the campaign his or her votes will be cancelled. Neither will it be permissible for candidates to give or transfer subscriptions to another candidate. Votes on such transferred subscriptions will be subject to disqualification at the discretion of the management.
- Any collusion on the part of candidates to nullify competition or any combination arrangement or effect to the detriment of candidates of this newspaper will not be tolerated. Any candidate or candidates entering into or taking part in such an agreement, arrangement or effect will forfeit all rights to a prize or commission.
- Any ballots issued on subscriptions may be held in reserve and voted at the discretion of the candidate but it is distinctly understood that candidates will not be allowed to use their credits in any manner detrimental to the campaign of other candidates. The printed coupons appearing from week to week in this paper must be voted on or before the expiration date appearing thereon.
- Extensions on subscriptions will count votes according to the regular schedule prevailing in the period in which they are turned in, with the exception of the final period. No extra votes will be given on extensions during the final period.
- No statement, assertion, or promise, either verbal or written, made by any representative, solicitor, agent or candidate, varying from the rules and statements published through the columns of this newspaper will be recognized by the publishers or the campaign management.
- In case of typographical or other error, it is understood that neither the publisher nor the campaign manager shall be held responsible, except for the necessary correction upon the same.
- Every candidate is an authorized agent of the Midwest Free Press and as such may collect subscription payments from present as well as from new subscribers.
- It is distinctly understood and agreed that candidates will be held responsible for all monies collected, and that they will remit such amounts in full at frequent intervals or on demand to the Campaign Department.
- There will be several big prizes awarded, besides a 10 per cent cash commission, to all ACTIVE non-prize winners, 10 per cent will be paid to all candidates as they turn subscriptions in to campaign headquarters, but it is distinctly understood that in the event ANY candidate becomes inactive, failing to make a weekly cash report of at least one subscription, he or she will at the discretion of the management, become inactive and thereby forfeit all rights to a prize. The 10 per cent commission which has been paid to all Grand Prize winners will be deducted from their prize at close of the campaign.
- To insure absolute fairness in the awarding of prizes, the race will be brought to a close under a "sealed ballot box" system, and will be under the personal supervision of three or more judges selected from the advisory board. During the last week of the campaign, the box—locked and sealed—will repose in the vault of a local bank, where candidates and their friends will deposit their final collections and reserve votes. And not until the race has been declared closed will the seals be broken, the box unlocked and the judges begin the final count. In this way no one, not even the campaign manager, can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates, which precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.
- The Midwest Free Press reserves the right to amend or add to the rules of this campaign for the protection of both the contestants and this newspaper. The right is also reserved to add to or increase the list of prizes or to accept contract or partial payment subscriptions if advisable.
- Twenty-five thousand extra votes will be given on each new yearly subscription during the first period of the campaign; 15,000 extra votes will be given on each new yearly subscription during the second period; 10,000 extra votes will be given on each new yearly subscription during the third period but no extra votes will be given on new subscriptions during the last week of the campaign.
- From July 1st to July 11th, inclusive, will be known as "opportunity days." 150,000 extra votes will be given for every three yearly subscriptions, or the equivalent, secured during "opportunity days." 400,000 extra votes will be issued for each six-year subscription secured. However, only ten six-year subscription coupons can be voted by any one candidate during "opportunity days."
- Two hundred thousand extra votes will be given a candidate for each three yearly subscriptions, or their equivalent, turned in during their first week of entry in the campaign, and one hundred thousand during their second week. At no time during the campaign will there be any extra-vote offers other than those outlined.
- The Midwest Free Press guarantees fair and impartial treatment to all candidates, but should any question arise the decision of the management will be absolute and final.
- Campaign opens today—closing August 22nd.
- All extra-vote certificates will be issued at the close of periods.
- In accepting nominations candidates agree to abide by the above conditions.

16,000 Things That Can't Be Explained

Miracles are today discredited by wise men, but Charles Fort of Bronxville, N. Y., has made it his life work to study all the phenomena that scientists say couldn't, and never did happen

By ELEANOR EARLY

CHARLES FORT believes nothing. He doesn't believe in heaven. He doesn't believe in hell. And science is worse.

Mr. Fort does not believe that the earth is round, and revolves about the sun. Nor that men descended from monkeys.

"Science," he declares, "is the accumulated lunacy of 50 centuries."

"I believe nothing," says Mr. Fort. "I have shut myself away from wisdom of the ages, and from the so-called great teachers of culture. I shut the front door upon them all, from Euclid to Einstein. And at the back door I hold out a welcoming hand to little frogs and periwinkles."

The truth of the matter is that Mr. Fort is a most peculiar man. He lives in a tenement in the Bronx, New York, with a patient wife, a talkative parrot, and 70,000 notes, filed in paper boxes.

Mr. Fort's notes are about such things as blizzards of snails. Black rains and red rains. Showers of frogs, bleeding pictures, poison fogs, and mysterious disappearances. Green moons and red suns. Droughts and deluges. Mermaids and sea serpents. Stones falling from the clouds, manna from heaven. Crimson worms that drop from the skies, and showers of eels. The weirdest, most monstrous things that ever were. Blood curdling, some of them. Unbelievable, all of them.

For years and years, Mr. Fort has been collecting his notes. Many of them are newspaper clippings. Whenever possible, he has verified them. He doesn't profess to believe them. There they are. Take them, or leave them. He simply offers them for your consideration.

"We should not," he holds, "firmly believe anything. Belief is an impediment to development. The only way to facilitate development is to accept temporarily."

And so Mr. Fort accepts, temporarily, all these notes of his.

"They represent," he says, "a procession of data that science has excluded."

FOR it is Mr. Fort's contention that any phenomenon that does not fit into science's explanation of things is discarded. Scientists, he claims, throw out miracles, ignoring or denying their existence.

And then Mr. Fort goes busily about, collecting tidbits here and there. Piling them up. Incorporating them in his ever-growing memoranda, and inviting the sayings to do one of two things. To invent new dogmas to account for them. Or to interpret them by cold formulae.

And the scientists, of course, do nothing of the sort. They simply ignore Mr. Fort and his 70,000 notes. Which, naturally, is rather annoying. No one likes to be ignored.

Fortunately, however, Mr. Fort has attracted the attention of a group of literary men. Such men as John Cowper Powys, Booth Tarkington, Theodore Dreiser, Harry Leon Wilson and Ben Hecht. These eminent gentlemen, along with several others, have organized the Fortean Society, and become the disciples of Heretic Fort. They say Fort is dead right. That science is a lot of nonsense. And the world is full of strange, strange things.

Things like mermaids. And what do scientists know about mermaids? Nothing at all. What, so far as that goes, do scientists know about any of the things tabulated and vouched for by Mr. Fort?

Take, for instance, the showers of living things. Mr. Fort has gathered records of 294 such showers. He tells of the terrified horses, up on their hind legs, hoofing a storm of frogs. About storekeepers, in London, gaping at frogs that were tapping on their window panes.

On Sept. 5, 1922, at Chalons-sur-Saone, in France, little toads dropped from the sky for two days. On May 29, 1892, in Coalburg, Alabama, there was a storm of eels. Such eels were never seen before in Alabama, but someone said that he knew of such eels, in the Pacific Ocean. Farmers came, with carts, to take them away for fertilizer.

Three years ago, at Halmstad, Sweden, red worms, from one to four inches long, fell during a snow storm. Thousands of them, like red ribbons in a shower of confetti. Those are Mr. Fort's stories. And he sticks to them.

BESIDES living things, he enumerates other sorts of showers. Stones are a rather common phenomena, he says. They fall slowly and heavily, and, so far as Mr. Fort has been able to learn, have never struck anyone. Although there was the little girl who died from fright the day rocks fell on London.

Fort has a theory of his own to account for such things. "Teleportation," he calls it, and explains it as a transitory force, operating rather like gravity, only different. That may not be clear. But Mr. Fort is not quite clear himself on the subject.

He tells of the appearance of strange animals, unlike any creatures known to earth. And he suggests that they may have been teleported from Mars, or the moon.

Perhaps you have heard the prayer of King Louis XIV. The king was tired of lamb chops, and beef, and pork. And one day, when he sat down to dinner, he spurned his nice roast beef, exclaiming, "Oh, God! Send me a new animal so I can have some new meat!" There is no record that God did anything of the sort. But one day, a couple of hundred years later, there appeared in southern France an animal that looked like a demon. Two feet long, and two feet high, and formed like nothing known to anatomists—to anatomists, at least, of this world. As if with belly missing, its hind legs were close to its forelegs. It had a head like a boar, and a tail like a hyena.

Maybe it came from Mars. Or the moon. Mr. Fort is not sure. He merely hazards the suggestion.

Among his notes is the record of a cow that gave birth to two lambs and a calf. Now, biologists refuse to admit any such possibility. The story, they say, is preposterous. Mr. Fort might as well talk about an elephant producing two bicycles and a baby elephant.

Yet well known stockbreeders examined the lambs, and accepted the story of their origin. The creatures, it seems, were large and coarse, and had hair on their breasts, like calves' hair.

"I know it is impossible," admits Mr. Fort. "But there it is. It's like a mule having young. Mules, as everybody knows, are symbols of sterility. But I have many records of fertility in mules."

AS a matter of fact, Mr. Fort has records of practically everything. He has plodded for 26 years in the libraries of London and New York, accumulating, weighing, sifting, and recording his impossible data in his filing cases.

There are plenty of people who would think this a dreary existence. But you'd be surprised the kick Mr. Fort gets out of it. Stories of spontaneous combustion particularly thrill him. Think of a poor old lady, sitting all by herself, and suddenly going up in smoke! So that there was nothing left of her but a pile of bones.

Charles Fort . . . who collects facts on impossible happenings and challenges science to explain them . . . photographed with his files of 70,000 notes on occurrences which, he says, science calmly ignores.

Lots of ladies have gone to ashes, just like that. The queer thing about spontaneous combustion is that it seems to apply particularly to women. Mr. Fort has no records of men combusting in any such fashion.

On the other hand, men, starkly naked, have suddenly dropped from nowhere, and been seen running madly about the country. Shortly they have disappeared, and never been seen there after, dead or alive. Maybe they came from Mars. Or the moon. Mr. Fort doesn't know.

Mysterious disappearances are quite baffling. Everyone has heard of Dorothy Arnold, and the way she vanished from the face of the earth. But nobody has ever hazarded a solution as naive as Mr. Fort's.

they were so many pilgrims that soon the place was known as Pilgrimsville.

In a month 1,000,000 persons had visited the statues. They were placed, finally, with the pictures, in windows, for all to see. There were crowds all day, and at night torchlight processions moved past the windows. Messrs. Cook, the tourist agents, sent inquiries as to whether the inns of Templemore could provide for 2000 pilgrims from England. Inquiries were cabled from the United States, and South Africa, and Japan. The phenomenon lasted four months.

Mr. Fort accepts the story as certain and provable. He is not, however, a pious man, and he questions the hand of God.

"Whatever the association may be," he says, "I note conditions in Ireland at the time. There was terrible bloodshed. Brutality and terrorism. Massacre and horror. England had instituted a reign of terror. Five days before the images began to bleed, the town was raided. Men were murdered, and blood ran like water. Now I do not say that the phenomenon was teleportation of flowing blood. But what was it?"

And what, if not teleportation, brought millions of mice to the fields of Kern County, California, in the autumn of 1927? And what, save teleportation, brought millions of rats to Invernesshire, Scotland? The strangest rats that ever were seen. Brown, with white rings around their necks. And their tails dipped in white, very decorative but unusual.

MAYBE it was teleportation that rained mud on Roseau, Dominica. But what made midnight fall at noon? At 11 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 4, Roseau was bumped by midnight. Night fell so heavily that it broke the roofs, and frightened the people out of their wits. And with the dreadful night, fell mud. Black mud. Mr. Fort has his facts from the Dominican and the People, published at Roseau, Dominica, British West Indies.

"I collect facts," he explains. "But I do not draw conclusions. Mud fell on Roseau. Very well. Mud fell. Why? . . . Why not?" Mr. Fort puts it squarely up to the scientists. Let them explain.

"I have gathered data on 16,000 occurrences on this earth which the Great God Science fails to interpret," proclaims Mr. Fort. "I have assembled the inexplicable. In the face of my facts, final pronouncements fade into mere conjectures. Science is a delusion."

Now, it would not be so bad if science had devoted itself exclusively to duping Mr. Fort. But science has attempted to delude other persons. Theodore Dreiser, for instance.

The manuscript of "The Book of the Damned" had gone the rounds, and met with unanimous editorial sniffs. Dreiser read it, and liked it. He took it to Publisher Liveright, who originally was as shy as his rival.

And he said, "See here, Horace, if you don't publish this, I'll take my own books to another firm."

THAT settled it. Liveright capitulated. And, when the book was published, Fort took his royalties, his wife, and his parrot, and sailed for England, to work in the British Museum. Maybe they file more data on phenomena in London than they do in New York. Anyway, Mr. Fort has spent half his life in the Museum there.

Now, Mr. Fort has retired to his flat in the Bronx. It is an inaccessible place, and so the Forts are not greatly bothered by guests. Mr. Fort borrows his wife's checked apron, and plays checkers, on its white and crimson squares. Every night he goes to the movies. Sometimes he makes home brew. He talks a good deal to his wife. And his parrot talks a good deal to the pair of them.

"I am a hermit by circumstance," explains Mr. Fort. "Not by inclination. In the old days I was a newspaper man—a social, writing man. I wanted to be a novelist. And so, I thought, I had to travel. I shipped all over the world."

"Then I came home, and discovered that the best way to learn life is not to travel. But to sit in one place. To know the people on the next floor, and the folks on the corner. So now I sit in my flat in the Bronx. And I am still a disappointed novelist."

"Charles Fort is one of the master minds of the world today," declares Mr. Dreiser. "I believe he may be the progenitor of an entirely new world view point."

4-H BABY BEEF TOUR PLANNED

Johnson County Group To Hold Judging on June 8 and 9

LONE TREE, Ia.—(Special)—The annual baby beef and pure bred heifer tour for Johnson county 4-H club members, parents and friends will be Monday and Tuesday, June 8 and 9. Frank P. Reed of the Ames Extension service will assist with the tour. There are so many calves on feed this year it will be impossible to stop at all market, sheep, pure bred litter, market pig, and dairy calf club member farms, but if any baby beef club members are in some of these classes they will be inspected at this time.

A later tour for dairy calf members is planned for the latter part of June and one for pigs and sheep club members. There will be a picnic dinner and ball game each day during the noon hour.

Schedule of the tour of farms in this vicinity will be: Monday noon, picnic dinner and ball game in the Iowa City Park, first, Everett Watters, on lower Muscatine road; second, Joseph and Leo Milner; third, Kenneth Stenmons; fourth, Loren and Florence Burr; fifth, Cleo Burr; sixth, Alvin Meyers; seventh, Victor Mueller; eighth, Leland Stocks; ninth, Wayne and Shirley Burr; tenth, Carol and Hubert Burr; eleventh, Keith Keeler; twelfth, Martin Warren.

Monday forenoon will be spent west and north of Iowa City and Tuesday's trip will begin at Farm Bureau office in Iowa City, going south and west.

Mrs. Adella Schaeppel and son, Howard, moved to Iowa City Monday, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Mary Zimmerman and Mr. and Mrs. Story Zimmerman moved to Cedar Falls Monday and Carl Zimmerman, who has been attending school there returned home with them.

Cedar Rapids Man Succumbs to Blood Poisoning Friday

CEDAR RAPIDS—(INS)—An inquest will be held today into the death of Raymond Simon, 15, who died Friday night of blood poisoning.

The CLUE of the SCARLET RIBBON

SYNOPSIS: Because of her love for Barry Croy, a famous movie star, Charlie Linton is innocently entangled in one of Hollywood's most thrilling unsolved murders. The death of one closely connected with the case has unsealed her lips and she tells the true version for the first time:—Thornton Trainbridge, a young newspaper man, is trying to prove my innocence. Among the suspects are Jim Conklin, Barry's chauffeur; Florence Williams, movie star, who had an appointment with Barry on the night he was killed; Charlie, then she will admit; Pierre Caston, head of the dope ring to which Barry belonged; Sam Helwig, Caston's henchman and the man of mystery found in a furnished room—murdered. Thornton decides to spend the night in Helwig's room in the hopes of discovering a clue to the double mystery. The next morning a mysterious phone call warns me that some terrible tragedy has happened to Thornton.

By E. V. BURKHOLDER

I HUNG the receiver up and rushed out of the house. My brain was a confusion of fears. My body was numb and lifeless. Thornton was gone! This thought seemed to cry to me from the sidewalk and the trees.

It wasn't until I had run nearly two blocks that I suddenly stopped and halted a taxi.

Mrs. Collins was waiting for me. She was standing on the steps of her home when the taxi drove up. "I don't know what's happened," she cried. "But Mr. Trainbridge has disappeared."

"Maybe he will come back," I suggested feebly. "Maybe nothing has happened to him."

"No, nothing has happened," the landlady cried. "Michael heard a noise last night and groans. The room is all torn up—and—there's blood there."

She walked into the house and I followed her. I was frightened and jumpy. Her husband, Michael, was waiting for us in the old sitting room. I didn't like the man the minute my eyes fell on him. He looked like a rat. He was scrawny and small. His eyes were shifty and little.

"Michael," Mrs. Collins said. "This is Mr. Trainbridge's friend, Miss Linton."

"Yes, I know it is Miss Linton," he said, in a rasping voice. "I have seen her many times—on the screen."

"I wasn't in any humor for implied compliments. I turned on him savagely and said: 'What do you know about Mr. Trainbridge? What happened to him?'"

"The streets in Lone Tree are being oiled after which a coat of gravel is to be spread."

Mr. and Mrs. John Croneworth, who were called here by the illness and death of Mrs. Croneworth's mother Mrs. Amanda Constant went to Iowa City for a few days visit with relatives before returning to their home in Sigourney.

stairs. He got out of bed and crept to the door of the hallway. He heard two people talking. Then there was a crash and a cry. He didn't believe the cry came from Thornton. It sounded like an older man. After the cry all was silent. Then there was noise of a terrible struggle. Another cry was heard and then all was silent.

He sneaked upstairs and listened at the door. There was no one in the room. He was too frightened to open the door and he went back downstairs and went to bed. He told his wife about it the first thing in the morning and she called me after she had entered the room. She didn't enter until late in the morning. She waited to see if Thornton came downstairs.

I took me about an hour to get this information out of them. They both tried to talk at once. I was annoyed and irritated.

"It took me about an hour to get this information out of them. They both tried to talk at once. I was annoyed and irritated."

"No, but we've heard funny noises," Michael said. "There has been some one visiting that room."

"Yes, I know that," I replied curiously. "That's why Mr. Trainbridge wanted to stay there. But what were they looking for?"

"We don't know," the landlady said. "It must be something that Mr. Helwig had."

"Yes, that's quite true," I said getting to my feet. "Have you noticed the police have seen any one around this house since the murder of Helwig?" I asked.

"No, we haven't," Mrs. Collins said. "I don't know what's happened."

"I'll be back," I cried and rushed downstairs. I didn't know the house, but I was able to make my way through the kitchen and out in the rear yard.

I picked up the coat. It was Thornton's. One side of it had been torn and was caked with blood. I let the bloody garment fall to the ground and walked into the house.

"Was his coat?" the landlady questioned when I re-entered the room.

"Yes, it was his coat," I answered a little curtly.

"Was there blood on it?" Michael Collins asked.

"It was soaked with blood," I said as I fell into a chair.

The landlady looked at her husband and then at me. Her face was pale and she was obviously frightened.

"Then he was hurt," she said in a low whisper.

"I told you something happened," her husband asserted with some heat. "I told you I heard funny noises."

"Please tell me everything you know," I said weakly. "I don't suppose you are doing here?"

"She jumped a little and looked at me. Her face was pale and she was obviously frightened. I hardly recognized her as Florence Williams."

"What's happened, Florence?" I cried.

"Please sit down," she said with a sad smile. "I want to tell you something."

I took a chair close to her. In the excitement of seeing her, I forgot, for the minute, about Thornton.

"Listen, Charlie," she said softly. "I have to tell you something. It is important. I can't keep it any longer."

She stopped speaking and took a cigarette out of her silver case. She lit it and looked again at the wall.

"Not a muscle in her face moved. 'What is it, Florence?' I asked quietly."

"It is about the murder of Barry Croy," she said in a lifeless manner. She continued to look at the wall.

"What is the secret, Florence?" I asked.

"You think I was the girl who met Helwig in the court that night, don't you?" she asked.

"I didn't say so, did I?" "No, but you think it."

"The girl used your car. Naturally I thought at first it was you. 'Did you get a good look at that woman?'"

"No, not a very good look. 'Do you still think it was me?' 'If you say it wasn't, I believe you, Florence. There is something else I should tell you first.'"

"I never got a chance to finish that sentence. Florence jumped to her feet with a cry. Her face was white as death. For a minute her body swayed as if she were going to fall. Then she turned and ran out of the house."

"What sinister secret is Florence hiding? Read the next installment of this story in tomorrow's paper."

Arrangements for Dairy Day Program Tuesday Completed
